

Charter Night In Bloomingburg

Lions Note Their First Anniversary

Some 120 members of the Bloomingburg Lions Club and their lady guests were on hand Monday night for the Charter Anniversary and Ladies Night celebration, held in Bloomingburg High School.

One of the highlights of the evening was a play, directed by Mrs. Emerson Chapman and presented by young folks in her second grade class. The youngsters did a good job in memorizing their parts, which helped tell the Biblical story.

To note the occasion of the first annual charter night, Bob Terhune of the Washington C. H. Lions Club spoke on the remarkable progress which the Bloomingburg club had made during its first year of existence.

Robert Jefferson, president of the Bloomingburg club, spoke on the activities of the club during the past year, mentioning especially the work which the club had done in its sight conservation program.

Jefferson presented a key to Lion Bob Hughes for obtaining two new members for the Bloomingburg club during the past year. Other members who have received keys during the past year include Lions Bus Foster, Raymond Scott and Frank Slager.

Short memorial services were held for the Donald Helsel, who died during the past year.

Following the business end of the meeting, the ladies and the Lions did some square and folk dancing and were entertained by Robert Verbeck of Columbus. Verbeck called for the dancing and presented a magic show.

The ladies were presented with gardenias. Mrs. Marjorie Looker and her corps of workers served the group a three course ham dinner.

Mrs. Sara Jester Dies in Columbus

Funeral services for Mrs. Sara Jester, 87, who died in Mt. Carmel Hospital Sunday noon, are to be held at the O. K. Woodyard Funeral Home, 255 East State Street, Columbus, at 1 P. M. Wednesday.

Interment is to be in the New Holland Cemetery.

Mrs. Jester was a native of the New Holland community where she spent her early life. She had lived for many years in Columbus, however.

Mrs. Jester had been in the hospital for about two weeks for treatment of a broken hip.

She had made her home with her son, Orville Jester, since the death of her husband about six years ago. She leaves a brother, Charles Alleman of Washington C. H., and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Winfough of Greenfield and Mrs. Laura Shockley of Columbus.

Wilbur Orr Injured In Motorcycle Crash

Wilbur Orr, 22, today is at home 624 East Paint Street, recovering from injuries in a motorcycle accident near Bainbridge last Sunday.

Orr said he did not know exactly what happened. All he can remember is plunging off of the machine in the ditch.

He was picked up later, unconscious, in an ambulance called by a passing motorist and taken to the Greenfield Hospital. He was treated in the hospital for contusions and brain concussion and brought to his home here.

Close HARMONY

The barber shop quartet of bygone days believed in close harmony. We are great believers in close harmony also—close harmony between our policyholders and this agency. Without it we are not able to give the service and the advice which we believe is due those who entrust their insurance business to us. This close harmony shows itself in two ways—we are prompt to report new developments and new changes which affect our clients, and we check periodically to see if there are any changes in the affairs of our clients which will affect their insurance or their insurance needs.

Mainly About People

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Carey of near Rock Mills, are announcing the birth of a twelve pound daughter, Laura Evenline, at their home Monday evening.

Uhl Swartz was taken from his home 149 1/2 South Fayette Street to Grant Hospital, Columbus, Monday afternoon in the Parrett ambulance where an emergency appendectomy was performed.

Mrs. David Glass of the Grassy Branch Road near Milledgeville, entered University Hospital, Columbus, Monday afternoon for observation and treatment, making the trip in the Gerstner ambulance.

Francis Baker, farm planner for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in Fayette County was in Columbus Monday to hear O. D. Miller state forester for Ohio, speak on his recent trip to Helsinki, Finland.

Sgt. and Mrs. Harold Alvis nee Audrey Curl, are announcing the birth of a six and one half pound daughter Friday March 24 at Belen, New Mexico. Sgt. Alvis is stationed at Kirtland Base, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Mrs. Harold Ivers was returned from Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, to her home on the Staunton-Jasper Road, Monday afternoon in the Kirkpatrick ambulance. She is recovering nicely from major surgery.

Charles Wallace III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace Jr. of the Columbus Road was admitted to Children's Hospital, Columbus, Tuesday morning where he is a patient for observation and treatment and probable surgery.

Mrs. W. E. Gordon is recovering slowly at her home in Book-walter, where she was returned Tuesday morning in the Morrow ambulance from White Cross Hospital, Columbus, after being a patient there for the past two weeks for observation and treatment.

Miss Josephine Jones of Sabina while here on business Monday evening suffered a fall on Hinde Street near the Post Office in which she sustained a fractured right leg in the knee joint. Dr. J. H. Persinger treated her following the accident, and she was brought to his office again Tuesday morning where injury was X-rayed and put in a cast before being returned to her home in the Littleton ambulance.

Services Held for Forrest M. Hains

Services for Forrest M. Hains were held at 2:30 P. M. Monday at the Methodist Church in Bloomingburg, with Rev. Guy Tucker in charge.

Rev. Tucker offered prayer, read the Scripture, delivered the sermon and read an obituary and the hymns, "Rock of Ages," and "Crossing the Bar."

The church was filled to capacity and the many floral tributes were cared for by Charles and Leslie Gibeau, Lincoln Schwart and Gilbert Biddle.

Burial was made in the Bloomingburg Cemetery, under the direction of the Parrett Funeral Home.

The pallbearers were five sons, William, Robert, Albert, Charles and Philip and a cousin, Mart Morris.

Teacher Pay Cut Looms at Jeff

Most of Staffs Being Set Up Now

Teachers in the Jeffersonville schools today faced a possible cut in salary when they go back next fall. This was revealed when the list of teachers reemployed at last Friday night's school board meeting was given out.

How much the salaries will be reduced—if they are cut—was not said definitely, but one member of the official family indicated it might be a blanket 10 percent reduction.

The drop in pay for the teachers depends, in large part, on whether or not the voters renew the three-mill school levy in the May primaries, according to Alvin G. Little, clerk of the board.

The decision to reduce the salaries came as the board met to consider the reemployment of the teachers for next year. Under state law, a teacher is automatically rehired unless advised otherwise by April 1.

The board will meet again this week, Little said, to complete the details on the salary schedules.

Teachers rehired in the elementary grades were Mrs. Helen Emery, Miss Helen Fults, Robert Creamer, Mrs. Jocelyn Harper, Mrs. Darlene Lemley, Mrs. Patricia Helsing, Mrs. Frances Kearney and Mrs. Maxie F. McCarley.

In the high school, the following were rehired: Mrs. Mary Marchant, Miss Lucille Bates, Mrs. Rowena Graham, Clyde Helsing, Miss Pauline Thomas, Lester Geiger and Mrs. Margaret Dowler. Supt. Carl Boring also was reemployed.

Wayne Rehires Six

The Wayne School board, with its new president, Loren Johnson presiding, did its rehiring earlier this month. Reemployed for the coming year were Mrs. Joan Graft and Mrs. Kathleen Pierson in the elementary grades. In the high school, Mrs. Ruby Fountain, Mrs. Gladys Shoemaker, Karl Kay and Harold Thomas, the superintendent, were rehired.

Teachers holding temporary certificates cannot legally be rehired until August 1, Johnson said. In this category in the Wayne school are Mrs. Joan Hunter, Miss Wilma Kern and Paul Baken-haster.

Bloomingburg Incomplete

At the Bloomingburg School, the names of those rehired will not be released until the latter part of the week. William Purcell, clerk of the school board, reported that a few more details have to be completed first.

Milford Barker, superintendent of the Madison Mills school, said the list of new teachers was not yet ready for release, but that it would be given out soon. Members of the district board of education could not be reached immediately.

School boards in the other ten districts in the county also are completing their teaching staffs. Only elementary schools are in these districts and the lists will be filed with the county superintendent when they are completed.

Temperature will average 3-6 degrees above normal. Normal maximum 50. Normal minimum 31. Colder Wednesday. Rising temperature trend Friday through Sunday. Precipitation will average more than one half inch. Snow flurries Wednesday. Rain indicated over the weekend.

Floods also threatened in parts of Iowa and Minnesota. Some 300 persons in Charles City, Ia., were evacuated from their homes yesterday because of the flood waters of the Cedar River.

In North Dakota, some 75 motorists were free after being marooned by a blizzard in a small farm home near Driscoll. Drifts measured six and seven feet in some parts of the state but the highway patrol said all stranded motorists had been liberated. The Bismarck Airport was blocked by drifts up to 10 feet deep.

Flood conditions in parts of eastern South Dakota halted some railroad traffic and impeded highway travel.

Dust and Snow Damage

Nebraska surveyed the damage by dust and snow storms. The state's winter-wheat growing sections were reported hard hit and it appeared crops were damaged and much top soil blown away by the gale like winds. Some roads in western Nebraska remained snow-blocked.

Winds which reached a velocity of 87 miles an hour whipped across the twin ports of Duluth-Superior at the head of the Great Lakes. Hundreds of telephones were knocked out. The northwest wind carried sleet mixed with snow and driving was hazardous.

Blue Ribbon 4-H Club in Meeting

The Eber Blue Ribbon Nutrition and Clothing 4-H Club held its regular meeting Monday evening at the Eber School with its club leader, Mrs. Essa Roberts.

The secretary, Betty Howard, opened the meeting as the nine members present answered roll call by naming a type of tree.

Refreshments of baked cookies and popcorn, prepared by Betty Roberts and Ludene Torbett, were served.

Ludene Torbett was appointed to buy ingredients for future baking projects.

On the cooking committee for the next meeting, at the Eber School on April 3, are Beverly Sprague and Betty Howard.

Trip to Bloomingburg Is Delayed by Snow

While Mrs. Robert Hains, of San Mateo, Calif., was en route to Bloomingburg last week, to attend the funeral services of her father-in-law Forrest M. Hains, the "City of San Francisco," crack train on the overland route, was stranded three hours in the famous Donner Pass, California, as result of snow blocking the road.

spread eastward to the Atlantic coast but moderated somewhat.

Tons of snow topped down the steep slopes of Little Cottonwood Canyon near Alta, Utah, yesterday, killing one highway maintenance worker. Three others trapped by the avalanche escaped unhurt.

Recovery Program Spending Needs Thought

The sentiment for a substantial reduction in funds for the European Recovery Program apparently is strong in Congress. The weary taxpayer can be glad for almost any saving in government spending these days, but even so he wants to be sure that a cut

Looking for Jobs

Starting this new year, most individuals take a long look ahead and make at least a mental note of things they would like to accomplish, new ventures they might like to undertake. Here is one list of things to get attention during the confining months of winter, another of things which must wait for the warm days of spring, perhaps yet another of preparations to be made for projects at summer's end.

Lists like these are common enough dealing with the personal tasks and plans of the household. There ought to be yet another list, less personal but nevertheless for personal attention, of places where an added helping hand might be given to the improvement of the community, or just to its day-by-day life. It is only a handful of citizens who really plan and seek out ways to use their talents and skills to make their neighborhood and their community better. Most of us try to take and accomplish a job when it is brought to us, but studiously avoid going out of our way to look for community jobs.

Almost everyone has some special ability which the community sometime could use. The community which gets the benefit of the many abilities of its residents is one which is a lively and interesting place in which to live, work and play. And the individual who finds a new way to use some skill for the benefit of his neighbors finds also a zestful pleasure he never knew before.

in appropriations represents a genuine saving. In the case of the ERP funds, a reduction not wisely made could very well result in waste of the remaining funds and in still higher costs in some future year.

It is entirely likely that some of the things for which ERP funds have been asked could be reduced in cost or eliminated, and the program might never miss them at all. But this program is not the sort which can be arbitrarily reduced on a percentage basis, be it five per cent or fifty, without the danger of making the whole program ineffective. If the program should be cut in such a way as to prevent the remaining activities from achieving their intended result, the whole thing might as well be abandoned.

The appropriation for the Marshall Plan should not be approached with the idea of saving some predetermined sum, in one way or another. It ought to be carefully examined, item by item, on the advice of people competent to judge the probable effectiveness of each activity and the accuracy of each cost estimate. With an intelligent effort of that nature, it is not reasonable to suppose that a good round saving might be the end result.

Reports have been heard that children in some places are coming to school hungry, because all the available family money has gone for a television set. The same story used to be told of the automobile. How far these stories are true, social workers may know better than anyone else. Always, however, there will be people who prefer glamorous luxuries to the prosaic necessities of everyday life.

People married at Niagara Falls either get roped out of a honeymoon trip or get a two-for-one bargain.

Want a Million?--Here, Take Mine By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(AP)—Anybody want a million dollars in dream money?

You can have mine. I've tried and tried—and I can't spend it. Not anymore.

Imagining what you would do if someone gave you a million dollars is, I suppose, America's favorite daydream. It is a mental game I have been playing for 30 years.

And it used to be great fun. Usually I'd perform some gallant deed to win this fancied wealth. I'd dash out into the street and save a little girl from being crushed. Her grateful father—banker, naturally—would whip out his checkbook, write out a draft for $1,000,000 and hand it to me, saying, "here, my boy, accept this as a slight token of my appreciation."

There was only one reason a small boy at that time would want a million dollars. I'd hitch-hike out to Hollywood and tell Tom Mix, the Hopalong Cassidy of a generation ago, "Tom, I want to buy your horse, Tony." "Why son, it would take a million dollars to buy that horse," Tom'd drawl.

"Here's your million, Tom," I'd answer. The flabbergasted cowboy would take the check—and I'd leap up on Tony, and ride him home. Oh, and when the neighborhood kids saw me gallop by on Tony—the envy in their eyes!

This daydream lasted me from kindergarten clear through grammar school.

Then I met a girl of ruinous beauty in junior high school. She had dimples, freckles and astigmatism—that is to say, she couldn't see me at all. But in study hall I'd dream up that good old faithful million dollars, and buy me a sack of glistening gems, including the Hope diamond.

And I'd pour them into the hand of my scornful beauty—yes, right there before the teacher—and when she'd say, "Harold—they're wonderful," I'd say, "no, Agatha, they're baubles—just baubles."

That particular daydream, played over and over again in a mind that should have been studying Latin verbs, explains why I flunked Caesar.

In college I started spending my mythical million at Monte Carlo. I'd push my way through the dukes and princes to a place by the roulette wheel.

"A million dollars on the red," I'd say offhand. The wheel would spin—and turn up black. Lost —a million bucks on a turn of the wheel! I'd saunter away with a careless smile as the tilted throng fell back in awe. Later, when I went to work for a living, I noticed two things about my daydream. I wasn't doing anything to earn the million—I'd just start with the assumption I had it. And I was getting selfish about spending it. I'd buy myself yachts and homes on the Riviera and stables of racehorses. And I was drinking tons full of champagne with chorus girls and film stars.

This was no way to live and I cut it out. Even in my dreams my arteries and conscience couldn't stand the pace. Later, I find, I don't know what to do with the money. I've figured out that $200,000 would really give me every single thing I now want out of life. What to do with the rest? Well, if I give it to the Red Cross, the Boy Scouts might get mad. And vice versa. And there is a big, red-faced man from the department of internal revenue who keeps running through my daydream shouting, "where did you get that million? Where did you really get it?"

So, if you want to be daydream millionaire, don't just take one million. Take two. You can have mine. I'm all worn out from the responsibility of figuring what to do with it.

It's More Funny than Humorous

In a delightful passage in George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple," gentleman John Burgoyne discussed opinions based on nothing. This is the passage:

"Swindon (puzzled). Do I understand that in your opinion—'Burgoyne. I do not express my opinion. I never stoop to that habit of profane language which unfortunately coarsens our profession...'"

I was minded of this when I received many letters on the subject of some articles on China, written by Joseph Alsop and appearing in "The Saturday Evening Post."

I have not read the articles, because I know why we lost China, having devoted my adult life to the subject.

However, among the letters was one that purported to be from Mr. Martin Sommers, an editor of the aforesaid publication. So I wrote him asking permission to print and discuss his letter. The first paragraph of my letter to him states:

"A certain amount of correspondence, concerning the articles published on China recently by the Alsops, has been sent to me from several sources. One letter is signed by you and indicates that you take the position that each person is entitled to his own opinion. I find, however, that the letter refers not to matters of opinion but to matters of a fact."

However, Mr. Sommers does object to my quoting his letter on the ground that it is his personal property, which it rightfully is. As nothing that he says in it would shake the world nor move mountains and since he objects to its quotation, I shall not quote it.

The matter at issue is obviously if an opinion is based not on facts, but on rumor, hearsay, guesses and hunches, is it an opinion or is it nothing? That is what I wanted to discuss. Not having read these learned articles on China, but depending only on the correspondence, I had no desire to enter into the controversy as to which is the greater man, Dr. H. H. Kung or Mr. T. V. Soong, both brothers-in-law of Chiang Kai-Shek.

Rather, I wanted to inquire whether opinions must be substantiated by fact or may be accepted simply because someone wants to utter them. Mr. Sommers' comment was so profound on the subject that I desired to quote him, as I do George Bernard Shaw, but as he objected to my doing so because of his property rights, I shall limit myself to Shaw.

By George Sokolsky

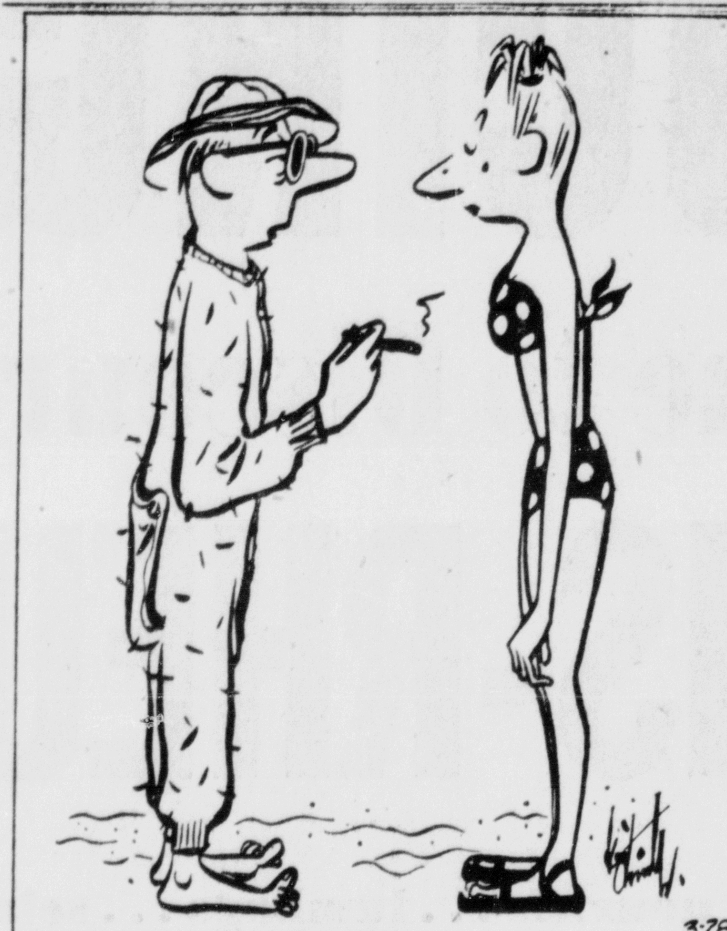

Kung, a banker? The simple facts are that we lost China to Soviet Russia: that the loss was consummated at Yalta; that Alger Hiss was Mr. Roosevelt's adviser at Yalta. And what matters is that Chiang Kai-Shek continues to stand valiantly on Formosa, bombing Soviet China whenever he gets a chance, conducting a vast underground organization which is upsetting the timetable of the Acheson-Hiss crowd in the state department and Mr. Trygve Lie in the United Nations and which started Senator McCarthy on a close scent.

Although Messrs. Kung and Soong are related by marriage, they have never been wholly cordial. Dr. Kung comes of an ancient and distinguished banking family. He is a lineal descendant of Confucius. I have known him intimately for more than 30 years, and when I met him first, he was a much richer man than he is today. I am sure of that because his investments, both inherited and earned, were in China and most of them have been destroyed by war, revolution and communist confiscation.

He is also a man of charitable inclinations, having maintained important charities both in China and in the United States. A quiet man, rather stout, and good humored, he has accepted devastating abuse with kindness and a smile.

But what is to the point is that the state department is always looking for a Third Force. They found one in Italy and in France and they are looking for it everywhere. By a Third Force they mean someone who is not of the regime that exists and someone who is not a communist. In a word, they seeking in each country a new deal group whom they can support financially. They have not found it in China.

Diet and Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
HEAD injuries are always serious because of the possibility of damage to the brain. With proper treatment, however, many lives can be saved even where the injury is severe. Usually first-aid treatment is not required except where there is bleeding from the scalp, in which case a pressure bandage may be put on.

Of course, the patient should be taken to a hospital as quickly as possible whenever the injury is at all severe. In some cases, shock or collapse occurs, and immediate transfusion, or injection of whole blood into a vein, is necessary in such cases.

Narcotic Drugs
Unless shock is severe, the head of the patient should be raised. The giving of narcotic drugs should be avoided.

When the patient is in the hospital, the physician can make a careful study to determine just what damage has occurred. The patient's temperature, pulse, and breathing rates are noted. The pupils, or openings in the eyes, are examined to determine if they are equal in size. The nose and ears are inspected for the presence of blood, which may indicate damage at the base of the skull.

Head Injury
After any injury of the head, careful observation of the patient for at least 18 hours is needed.

Injuries to Head May Be Serious

During this time the pulse and breathing rates are taken at intervals. It may be necessary to waken the patient every hour to make sure he has not become unconscious. Slow heart rate and hard and irregular breathing and vomiting, or inequality of the pupils, may mean bleeding outside the lining which covers the brain and, in such cases, immediate operation is necessary.

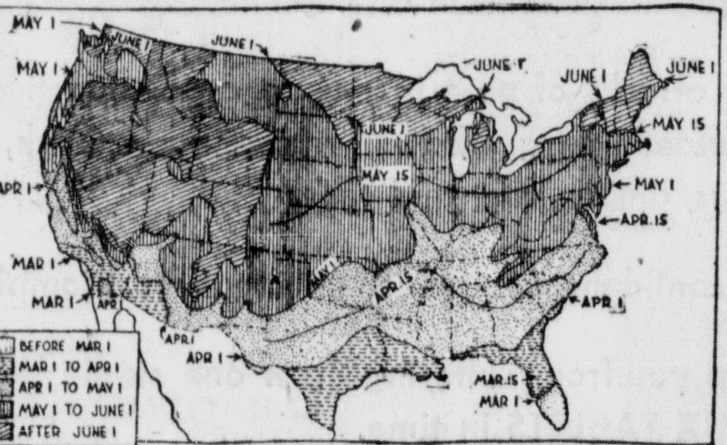

X-rays of the skull and neck are made as soon as possible and, of course, will show whether or not a break in the skull or upper part of the spine has occurred. During all this time, the patient must get plenty of fluids which may have to be given by injection into a vein or under the skin. If the patient is unconscious for more than one day, he may have to be fed through a tube passed into the stomach.

Of course, the exact treatment to be used in any case will depend upon the extent of damage to the skull and brain which has occurred.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. C.: What is the cause of nosebleeds?
Answer: Nosebleeds may be due to a variety of causes, such as a blow on the nose. Nosebleeds may occur in conditions in which there is high blood pressure associated with hardening of the arteries or chronic kidney disease; also, diseases of the blood, such as anemia.

Win Gambles with Jack Frost By Studying Seasonal Charts

This U. S. Department of Agriculture Map Shows Dates on Which the Chances of Damage From Frost Are Only One to Ten.

Temperature is the most important limiting factor in all outdoor horticultural activities. Soil can be improved, water can be supplied artificially. But planters are at the mercy of the temperature.

A key-day in the spring, which governs all operations, is the date when in your locality it becomes relatively safe to set out tender plants. In other words, the frost-proof date. This does not mark the beginning of gardening, because seeds of hardy vegetables can be sown as soon as the ground has thawed out and become dry enough to work. This is usually 30 days before the frost-proof date.

The term frost-proof, moreover, is hardly correct. The weather is too uncertain for that. There is always the chance that in an exceptional year, a frost will occur long after the average time and many tender things will be nipped. But some risk must always be accepted in gardening.

On the basis of long experience, the weather bureau has prepared a map which divides the country into zones, and established for each zone a date on which the chances are 10 to 1 against a killing frost occurring in the spring. The map accompanies this discussion. Look up your location and talk to your gardening neighbors about their practice, and you will find it easy to decide on the date to accept as safe from frost in your garden.

Of course some years you may win with a long-shot and get a crop from an early planting of a tender crop because of an exceptionally warm spring. If you want to figure the odds against this kind of chance taking, you may estimate that the risk of losing tender plants is exactly doubled, when they are set out two weeks before the frost-proof date.

There is nothing to be gained, moreover, by taking this risk with plants which have been started indoors, since they may be seriously injured by a hard frost which does not kill them, and always do best when they continue growing without a check.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP)—This is the story of Fannie Mae. Take a man named Jones who wants to build or buy a home. He doesn't have enough money to pay for it in full. So he borrows from a bank. But the bank doesn't want to be left holding the bag if anything goes wrong. It wants some insurance, which means assurance that it won't lose its depositor's money that it loaned Jones. What can it do? It can go to the FHA (Federal Housing Administration) or, if Jones is a veteran, to the VA (Veterans Administration). In some cases, if Jones is a veteran, the bank can go to FHA and VA. The FHA will insure, and the VA guarantee, the money the bank let Jones have—provided his property meets FHA or VA requirements. In that way, the bank is protected on its loan. (This story won't go into details on how great a percentage of the loan FHA or VA will stand back of or how much Jones has to put up out of his own money). This is the reason the government protects a bank on such loans: To keep business booming, it wants people to build and buy as much property as possible. It knows most people can't do that unless they get bank loans. And it knows banks will be a lot more willing to let people borrow for building if they know the government protects their loans and they can't lose. So the government, meaning Congress, gave the FHA and VA power to insure or guarantee these loans for the general good of business and the country and the people. But now comes another problem: Banks, particularly the small ones, don't have an inexhaustible supply of money to hand out in loans to home-buyers. For example: A small bank which put out $100,000 in home loans might not have a lot left for things like personal loans or loans to people who want to buy or expand a business. In short, banks don't like to put all their eggs in one basket. So the government—besides insuring banks' home loans—had to find a way of enabling banks continually to have a supply of money on hand for home loans. In 1948 Congress told a government agency—the Federal National Mortgage Association, which is called "Fannie Mae" because of its initials—to step into the picture. It does so in this way: When a bank makes a loan on property it doesn't hand out the money without having a hold on the property. It holds a mortgage. Then if Jones, who got the loan, doesn't pay up when he's supposed to, the bank can foreclose the mortgage and take over the property. This is where Fannie Mae steps in. Congress gave it authority to buy the FHA-insured or VA-guaranteed mortgages from the banks. In this way, the government, or Fannie Mae, pays the bank in cash for the loan it made to Jones and then takes over Jones' mortgage. Thus, the bank has more money to make more loans and keep home-buying and home-building going. But—When Congress arranged all this in 1948, it told Fannie Mae it could spend up to $2,500,000,000. And Fannie Mae went to work, buying up the mortgages from the banks. By the end of February, 1949, it had taken over from the banks, or agreed to take over more than 278,000 mortgages totaling more than $2,200,000,000. Since its $2,500,000,000 has nearly run out, Fannie Mae had to stop taking on any new mortgages. But it will go through with those it had agreed to take over up to three or four days ago. What now? Congress will have to approve more money for Fannie Mae to keep on with its work. It's expected to do that. One thing should be remembered: Fannie Mae doesn't just buy up mortgages and keep them in a government vault. It sells them where it can at a small profit to outfits such as other banks and insurance companies, which in turn make money off the interest which Jones has to keep on paying on his mortgage, not matter who holds the mortgage. Meanwhile, FHA has had to slow up on the home loans it will insure for banks because it's been using up the money Congress voted FHA to do such insuring. Congress will have to take care of FHA soon, too.

City's Grade Schools Hear Special Concert

You can't leave the youngsters out. They got their own junior-sized concert. Children from the first through the sixth grades from all five city schools trooped to the WHS auditorium Monday afternoon to hear a special concert by the high school band. The 93-piece band presented an hour-long program of music that was trimmed down from the concert given before a capacity crowd Friday night. WHS Principal Arthur Wohlers welcomed the grade schoolers with a brief talk before the concert opened.

$1,000.00 CASH FREE! TO SPIKE A RUMOR

The above headlines seem rather out of place coming from Briggs Furniture . . . but we have a job to do within the next few weeks and we don't intend to have our efforts and money spent for nothing . . . simply because SOME PEOPLE are under the impression that we are NOT going out of business as we are advertising . . . and that what we really are doing is only a sales-promotion stunt to stir up some extra business.

Now remember, we don't say everyone is under that impression but we have heard just enough remarks along that line to make us sit up and TAKE NOTICE to this extent.

$1,000.00 will be given to anyone who can prove that we are NOT going out of business just as we are advertising as we could not secure a satisfactory lease, and that we will be out of business here in Washington C. H. on or before April 29th, 1950.

We realize that the announcement of our quitting business comes like a thunder bolt out of a clear sky to a great many people but just the same, we have decided to sell out . . . and sell out we will.

Sorority Plans Easter Project At Meeting

The regular meeting of Graduate Sorority was held Monday evening in the Record-Herald Club rooms with a good attendance of members present.

The meeting was called to order by the pro-primus Mrs. Richard Rankin, and opened with the Graduate Song and the invocation. The usual reports were read and accepted, and Mrs. John E. Rhoads gave a detailed report on visits to the various rest homes in this city which is a project of the sorority, and told of the gifts that had been taken during the past month.

It was also decided to visit one of the rest homes on Easter and to serve a dessert course to the patients. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Dale Ward program chairman and she introduced Mrs. Langdon McCoy who read scripture taken from the Book of Mark.

Mrs. Ward next presented Mrs. John E. Rhoads in two delightful readings entitled "You Have To Believe" and "The Legend Of The Dogwood."

During the social hour following the hostesses Mrs. Ward and Mrs. McCoy served light refreshments and the group spent the remainder of the evening in counting sales tax stamps.

Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Ottinger and daughter, Ann, returned to their home in Washington, Indiana, after a weekend visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe.

Mr. Andrew Creamer Thompson was the weekend guest of his mother, Mrs. Clarence Snyder, Mr. Snyder and Mrs. Alice Renick, enroute from a business trip in Buffalo, New York, to his home in Woodstock, Illinois.

Couple Honored At Lovely Shower

The Town Hall at Buena Vista was the scene of a wedding shower on Sunday afternoon, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cockerill, nee Patty Miller, and included about sixty guests.

The stage was decorated for the occasion in pink and white, with a suspended wheelbarrow in the predominating colors, forming a clever theme, with streamers forming a canopy over the tables arranged in a semi-circle, on which the lovely gifts were arranged.

Colorful balloons also added to the elaborate decorations and one huge balloon, filled with confetti, was punctured much to the surprise of the honor guests, which carried out the simulated shower theme.

Mr. and Mrs. Cockerill received many beautiful and useful gifts, for which they graciously responded.

Misses Roberta Theobald, Nancy Rife, Jo Ann Williams and Charlene Eakins assisted with the gifts.
Miss Patty Patton entertained with a group of piano numbers, and later ice cream, cake and coffee was served by the hostess group, made up of Mrs. Ralph Theobald, Mrs. Everett Page, Miss Maxine Gilmer, Mrs. Harry Rife, Mrs. Charles Theobald, Mrs. Oren Patton, Mrs. A. L. Morris, Mrs. Charles Eakins, Mrs. Ray Cummings, Mrs. Howard Williams, Mrs. Donald McCoppin and Mrs. Delbert Morris.

Miss Lela Backenstoe, of this city, and Miss Rita Walters, of Columbus, spent the weekend as the guests of friends in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Myers, of Detroit, Michigan, spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Whitfield. They were enroute from a vacation in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Junk have returned from a three week's vacation spent in Hollywood, Florida. Enroute home, they visited with their granddaughter, Miss Beverly Baer at Warm Springs, Georgia, and found her much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilhelm and daughter, Sacha Sue, have returned to their home in Fairborn, after a weekend visit with Mrs. Wilhelm's mother, Mrs. Kathryn Foster, of Bloomingburg.

Mrs. Albert S. Stemler, Mrs. Martin A. Hughey, Miss Mary Barnes and Mrs. Glenn Pine have returned from a ten day southern trip. Their itinerary included stops at Hot Springs, Arkansas, Houston, Texas, New Orleans, Louisiana, Mobile, Alabama and Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klein, Mrs. Arden Roberson, of Huron, Mr. Robert Bauman, of Cleveland, and Mr. Don Denton, student at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Denton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Allemang, of Bloomingburg, had as Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Nixon, nee Joan Swineburne and son Eddie of Cincinnati.

Miss Pat Mitchell and her roommate, Miss Marilyn Humphries, who are students at Bowling Green University, have returned to their studies after spending the weekend with Miss Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mitchell, who with Mr. and Mrs. Jess Feagans, motored them back to the university Sunday evening.

Mrs. Courts Honored At Birthday Party

A delightful surprise party on Sunday afternoon honored Mrs. Ella Courts at the Carr Nursing home, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. She was well remembered with beautiful gifts and in the evening Mrs. Courts was presented with a decorated birthday cake and after blowing out the candles, the cake was served with ice cream making up the dainty refreshments to bring the lovely event to a close.

Betty Ellen Ford Honored on Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and daughter motored to Leesburg Sunday to be guests at a dinner honoring their daughter, Betty Ellen on her eighteenth birthday anniversary. They were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. William Barrett and children Carolyn, Mariou and Billy.

Additional guests included were Gene, Eddie and Dale Ford, of this community and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hiss of Columbus.

Utah became a state in 1896, the 45th to be admitted to the Union.

First Birthday Celebrated

Bruce Evans Ault, is the cunning little son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Ault 832 Millwood Avenue.

He has snappy blue eyes and brown hair and celebrated his first birthday anniversary on Sunday, March 26, when his parents entertained with a dinner in honor of the occasion and included members of both families.

Bruce Evans has an older sister Deborah and his grandmothers are Mrs. Tessie Ault 1119 North North Street and Mrs. Billie E. Paul 614 Broadway.

Lewellens Guests Of Antioch Students

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lewellen, visited old friends at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Sunday.

They had dinner with the following students, who worked on co-op jobs here with the Morton Showcase Company, the County Engineer and the Record-Herald who are: Jim Harris, Warren Benis, Norman Wilson, Carol Faith Platt, Daniel Gottlieb, Al Cornelius, Kenny Young, John Snyder and Chauncey Bateman.

ASHTABULA LADY LOST 30 LBS. IN 6 WEEKS

"I feel like a new woman since taking Rennel, and have lost 30 lbs. in about six weeks," writes Mrs. Frank Kleinert, 741 W. 39th St., Ashtabula, Ohio. "I have lost this weight without dieting. I no longer feel clumsy and can now do my housework easily. Thank you very much for what Rennel has done for me."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomforts of being overweight. Why not try this effective yet inexpensive method of reducing and enjoy the pleasure of feeling younger and more alive. Try Rennel and notice the admiring looks you will receive from your friends as your figure becomes younger and your vitality increases. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle and then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If you aren't satisfied with the results, return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product, insist on genuine Rennel.

Club Members Meet At Richardson Home

Mrs. Edgar Richardson was hostess to the members of the Mysterious 15 on Monday evening for the last meeting of the year. The business session was conducted by the president Mrs. Richard Park, who used the usual reports in the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Mac Smith.

Club activities were reviewed for the past year and the scrapbook chairman, Mrs. Forest Williams received praise for her capable work in the preserving of a permanent record for the club. Election of officers schedules to take place was postponed until the April meeting.

At the close of the business meeting the hostess provided clever contests and awards in these went to Mrs. Minnie Long and Mrs. Richard Park.

A delicious salad course was served and the remainder of the evening was spent in informal visiting over needlework. The April 24 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Henry.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Hercules and daughter, Cynthia Ann, returned home Sunday evening from Port Huron, Michigan, where Mrs. Hercules and her daughter spent the past week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henderson, while Mr. Hercules attended a press photographer's school at Kent State University.

Country Clubbers Take League Lead

The Country Clubbers today held the lead in the Fraternal League after Monday night's bowling at Bowland.

They displaced the mighty Elks, who had held the top spot since the start of the season last fall.

The Country Clubbers moved into first place with a clean sweep of their match with the Rotarians while the Lions were knocking off the Elks in two out of three games.

The Country Clubbers had no snap against the Rotarians. They had a margin of only 15 pins in the first game, 20 in the second and 13 in the third.

The 2420 total rolled by the Elks was only 61 pins under that of the Lions, but most of it was made up in the second game when the Lions suffered a relapse. Powers was largely responsible for the Lions victory. He tallied 810 in the three games.

The Sabina Moose climbed into third place, ahead of the Record-Herald crew, when they won the last two games of their match. They were tied for third when they took the alleys.

The defeat of the Record-Herald boys left them in a tie for fourth place with Mt. Sterling Boosters, who won two games from the Universals.

Yankee Hospital List Continues To Grow

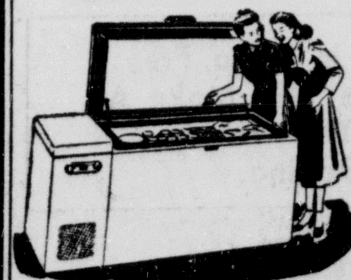

St. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The New York Yankees' current hospital list has Dr. Sidney Gaynor hopping around.

ball. There wasn't much to indicate that Redleg rookies are ready for big time competition.

Gerry Blackburn, a $40,000 bonus pitcher, blew a six-run lead to cap the sloppy play.

Today, the Reds varsity will go back to work against the Detroit Tigers at Lakeland and Ewell Blackwell has tabbed to pitch five innings.

Manager Sewell admitted yesterday that one of his biggest disappointments thus far has been the pitching of Herman Wehmeier, the big right-hander.

"I thought sure Hermie was going to be a consistent winner for us this season," he said, "but he has shown no indication of it so far. His control has been pathetic and his fast ball, for the most part, is straight as a string."

Kirkpatrick Girls Hold League Lead

Kirkpatrick's girls stretched their lead in the Ladies League a little in Monday night's bowling at Bowland when they won two games from the Loudner quintet while second place Try-Me-Taxis were losing two to the Montgomery Warders.

The NCR team moved a little further from the cellar door when they won two games from the last place Candymakers.

The Jeffersonville girls representing Funk's Restaurant broke their tie with the Morris Store girls and took over fourth place by winning two games of their match.

Detroit's Own Rookie May Stay with Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla.—Young Ray Herbert, a rookie off Detroit's own sandlots, may stay with the Detroit Tigers into the regular season.

In spring drill the 20-year-old righthander has impressed manager Red Rolfe to the extent of saying "the kid deserves further trial." Herbert pitched for Toledo last season.

In six innings against the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds Herbert has allowed only two hits.

Damages Sought From Indians

Mismanagement
By Vecek Charged

CLEVELAND, March 28—(AP)—

A LEBANON, who reportedly tried to buy the Indians last fall has filed his second damage suit charging mishandling of the baseball club's funds while Bill Vecek was tribe chief.

J. H. Harris, a former Cuyahoga County commissioner, petitioned common pleas court yesterday to order the Ohio Sports Service, Inc., a concession firm, to pay $185,061 to the Cleveland Baseball Corp.

The plaintiff, who held 38 1-3 of the 1,125 shares of corporation stock outstanding under Vecek, alleged the burr-headed showman paid that sum to Ohio Sports Service, although it was unearned.

The defendant company is owned by Louis and Marvin Jacobs of Buffalo, N. Y. It never has held concession rights at Municipal Stadium.

Harris' suit further charged the Jacobs Brothers advanced money to Vecek to help him buy the Indians and to certain stockholders who purchased the club from Vecek last Nov. 21.

CCNY Is Favorite In Cage Tournament

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP)—City College of New York rules a two-point favorite tonight to subdue Bradley for the NCCA championship and thereby gain basketball immortality.

A victory for the once-unsung Beavers, who have been hot as a stove lid for the past two weeks, would make them the first team to win the sport's fabulous "double"—the two big national tournament titles in a single season.

It would be the hardwood equivalent of Bobby Jones' "grand slam" in golf or, say, Citation's "triple crown" in racing.

The championship game will take the floor at Madison Square Garden at approximately 10:15 P. M. (EST) following the third place consolation tilt between Baylor and North Carolina State (8:15).

The game has been a sellout for weeks and ticket demands indicate it would draw 10,000 if space permitted. But the famous Midtown Arena accommodates little more than 18,000.

Cubs Start Back Home; Camp Crowds Slim

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 28—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs began their homeward trek today leaving their poorest spring exhibition attendance record since pitching camp in California in 1922.

With poor weather also a factor, the Cubs drew only 39,971 customers in 15 games—at least 50 per cent normal.

Rookie First Baseman

St. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Big Steve Bilko has been benched as first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals—which leads to speculation the rookie has muffed his chance, at least for the moment.

Manager Eddie Dyer says it isn't so. But the nod has gone to Glenn Nelson, who yesterday made three clean hits and handled 10 chances with ease.

Flores Gives Lift To Indian Hopes

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 28—(AP)—Relief pitcher for the Cleveland Indians?

Jesse Flores may be a starting pitcher if he keeps on displaying the stuff he did yesterday.

Flores, a 33-year-old castoff from Philadelphia's Athletics, gave up only one scratch hit—a tricky ground ball that skipped past second baseman Johnny Berardino—in six innings.

The tribe won the exhibition game from the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 at San Bernardino, Calif.

Manager Lou Bourdeau was considering Flores as a reliever when the Indians purchased him from San Diego last fall. Lou thought the Mexican-American's experience and coolness, coupled with his breaking-ball delivery, would make him a natural in relief roles.

Dick Rozek, a young rookie who replaced Jesse after the sixth, also looked impressive in the last three innings, serving up only one hit.

Shortstop Ray Boone and third baseman AJ Rosen sparked the attack for the tribe, each collecting two singles in four times at bat.

Football Practice Is On at Ohio State

COLUMBUS, March 28—(AP)—Ohio State University football players began spring practice today—in the classroom.

Coach Wesley Fesler has planned chalk talks and motion pictures until Monday. After six weeks of drills, the intra-squad game will be held in Ohio stadium.

Only 16 lettermen are back this year, and Fesler is faced with the problem of finding new men to fill 16 spots in the offensive and defensive platoons.

He said he will build his team around guard John Biltz, right half Ray Hamilton, tackle Bill Trautwein, end Tom Watson, halfback Dick Widdoes, and safetyman Vic Janowicz, regulars on the offensive and defensive teams.

Sharks Plague Fishing Off California Coast

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—(AP)—Local fishermen have had one of the poorest seasons in years. And recently their troubles have been doubled by huge basking sharks which move in close to shore and interfere with dragnet operations.

William Adler, president of Farallone Fisheries, reports that some of the big fellows, six and seven ton whoppers as long as 20 feet, have ripped halibut and sea bass nets to shreds. The sharks can be caught, Adler says, "but they are of no earthly use."

SAFE IN U. S., interdenominational Evangelical missionary, the Rev. James A. Stewart, Glasgow, Scotland, tells in Baltimore, Md., of his escape from Red police in 1946 after a day of torture in the notorious Hungarian detention center where Cardinal Mindszenty was held. Rev. Stewart claims he was forced to stand up and sit down constantly, which reduced him to nervous exhaustion. Then the wiles of feminine pulchritude were used. He was under arrest as a spy. The Gentle Heart
by KAY HAMILTON

Jenny Mayhew keeps going bravely yet gracefully for her sister Natalie, a young designer. Natalie is the one who is the heart of the family. She is the one who is the heart of the family. She is the one who is the heart of the family.

Natalie and Brent disappeared into the studio together, and Jenny began to clear the table. The depression which had lain upon her spirit ever since Fred's visit this morning had miraculously vanished with Brent's arrival. He could always make her feel this way—happy and excited—and she hummed a little as she scraped the plates and laid out the soap dish.

In no time at all, Natalie and Brent had joined them in the kitchen. "He's done it!" Natalie cried happily. "He's done it!" "Don't tell me that fresh eye did the trick?" Jenny said.

"It certainly did. I knew I was stale on the thing, and if I'd had the sense of a fruit-fly I'd have known Mr. Lightfoot didn't mean what he said literally."

"If she breaks the line twice," Brent explained, "at two unevenly spaced places, it'll be carried through" without dominating the design as it does now."

"Just for that," Natalie said with sudden magnanimity, "you can start moving in day after tomorrow. I ought to be ready by then."

"Well! I'll hold you to that." He turned to Diane, silently wiping dishes. "Have you ever thought of helping out a hard-working hack artist and making some money at the same time?" he asked her.

She looked up, startled. "Are you talking to me?"

"Who else, beautiful? I've got two romantic pulp magazine covers promised, with the sketches approved, and I'm not fool enough to drop my regular income on the chance that this advertising job will go through. Will you pose for them? I'd pay you regular rates."

Diane was pleased. "I'd love to. Brent. When do we start?" She turned to her sisters triumphantly. "You see, I'll be making money right away!"

Brent, with his usual quick perception, sensed the meaning behind this, and added, "When I get going on those ads, I'll need a pretty girl now and again. I can't have nothing but wrinkled farmers and gnarled fishermen, can I? Not if I want to appeal to the American public. So you're hired for those, too."

"Oh, Brent, darling!" Diane flung her arms around his neck, hugged him. "There's nothing I'd like better. It will be like the old days when I used to pose for Dad sometimes."

Jenny, pulling the plug out of the percolator, so that she could wash it, suddenly remembered something. "Oh, Natalie, I am a nitwit. I forgot to tell you that Gary telephoned this morning."

"Gary?" There was only the one

Potato Racketeers Now Facing Arrest

NEWARK, N. J., March 28—(AP)—Seven men accused of buying government surplus potatoes at a penny per hundredweight and selling them back to the army at $1.80 were expected to surrender today on fraud warrants.

U. S. Attorney Alfred E. Modarelli said warrants accusing the seven men of defrauding the government had been issued Saturday and that he expected all seven to surrender voluntarily today.

Modarelli named Moe Berger, and Alfred Peluso, both of Brooklyn, as ringleaders in the plan. He said they operated a dehydration plant, known as Pelber Good Products, Inc., at Clifton, N. J.

"Berger and Peluso had a contract with the U. S. department of agriculture to buy its surplus potatoes for one cent per 100 pounds for dehydration purposes," Modarelli said. "The contract provided the dehydrated product would be sold overseas."

Mules Good Miners And They Always Eat
MORLEY, Colo.—(AP)—Morley mine has 134 on its work list which eat heartily every day whether the mine operates or not. But when they do work, these 134 mules earn their 16 pounds of oats daily plus all the hay they can shove down. This is one of the few coal mines in the country where mules are used to haul coal cars, because of gaseous conditions underground.

Rhonda Floyd, a former cowboy, is the stable boss. "Mules are a lot nicer to work with than people," he says. "Mules can't argue with you."

Red Cross Blood Unit To Arrive Here Wednesday

Donors Urged to Help County Reach 100-Pint Goal

Volunteer workers were completing arrangements today for the arrival of the Red Cross bloodmobile unit here Wednesday morning.

The unit is expected to set up its headquarters at the First Presbyterian Church on North Hinde Street. It will remain here throughout the day together with a staff of nurses and other trained personnel.

Volunteer workers here will assist Fayette County residents in donating their blood, which will go into the district blood bank in Columbus.

The goal for Fayette County will again be 100 pints. So far, the county has not reached its goal, but this time Red Cross leaders are hopeful of getting the quota.

The importance of participating in the blood bank program was recently emphasized here when a resident of Fayette County got 16 pints of blood.

In Columbus recently, the importance of the blood supply was pointed up when an 18-month-old child was struck by a motorist and required a transfusion of blood, which came from the Columbus blood bank.

Those residents of the county who want to help insure that the county reaches its goal should either contact one of the volunteer workers, call Miss Clarabelle Robinson at the King Knap Furniture Store or merely report to the church Wednesday and donate their blood.

Volunteer workers are as follows: Hal Summers, chairman of the blood bank drive; Mrs. Earl McVey, Mrs. S. P. Ludwick and Mrs. Urcel Hays, all vice chairmen; G. H. Biddle, Mrs. Darrell Williams, Mrs. Jess Feagans, Mrs. Warren L. Bryan, Mrs. John O'Conner, Frank Grubbs, Mrs. O. L. Wiseman, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Bailey.

Goes to Workhouse On His 25th Trip To Police Court

His 25th appearance in the police court here proved to be a little discouraging to Loren Lee Mitchell of Washington C. H. Tuesday.

Mitchell drew a one-way ticket to the Cincinnati Workhouse in the custody of Police Chief Vaiden Long.

Convicted of driving while drunk, Mitchell started serving a 90-day sentence in the Cincinnati institution. He also got a stiff $250 fine. Mitchell drew the sentence because of his long record of appearances in police court.

Chief Long had a handful of cards on Mitchell. Most of the offenses were for intoxication.

Cub Pack Plans To Hold Potluck Fete

Members of Den No. 1 of Cub Pack 136 are planning to hold a potluck supper at the Wayne Township Hall at 6:30 P. M. March 31.

Announcement of the date for the supper was made at the regular meeting of the group Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Hoppes.

The meeting opened with five youths, George Garring, Billy Herman, Jay Bonecutter, Norman Campbell and Stanley Smith, repeating the pledge of allegiance.

A report was made on achievement books. The group then worked on scrapbooks and closed their meeting with a living circle and repeating the law of the pack.

Ray Graft, scout executive for Fayette County, and Earle Henderson, will speak at the potluck supper March 31. Cubs and their parents will be present for the supper.

SELLS PRACTICE
CLARKSBURG—Dr. George W. Cooper, who has practiced medicine here 25 years, has sold his practice and residence to Dr. Frank Willis Taylor, of Arlington.

Sledge Hammer Like Blows in Stomach Stop: Man Returns to Job

"I was old before my age. I suffered from agonizing pains in my stomach which felt as though it had been beaten with a sledge hammer. No wonder I had to quit work." So says a man living here in Washington C. H. Due to excess stomach acidity most everything would sour on his stomach, gas always kept me bloated and I had such terrible heartburn that I was unable to sleep at night. I was truly a miserable man. I got Ead-Ail and from the very first dose improvement began. Soon I could enjoy a substantial meal and enjoy a good night's rest. Now I'm back to work.

Ead-Ail is a new medicine that goes right to work giving symptomatic relief from burning stomach and awful gas pains resulting from hyper-acidity. Miserable people soon feel different. Don't go on suffering, get Ead-Ail. Sold by Downtown Drug Co. Adv.

AUTO ACCIDENTS COST MORE TODAY

In two years time the annual automobile accident bill has almost doubled. It costs more to fix crumpled fenders and to patch up broken heads. More people, driving more miles, at higher speeds produce more accidents. To pay the bill you will have to "dig deeper" if you have no insurance on your car. Why take that chance?

More Than 300 Attend Recital

Rain Cuts Attendance At Lions' Benefit

Over 300 people braved the rain Monday night and heard an entertaining program of organ music presented by Roger Garrett at the WHS auditorium.

The rains came at a most inopportune time as many ticket-holders and others planning to attend were kept away by the weather.

Proceeds from the benefit program, sponsored by the Washington C. H. Lions Club, will go into the Lions' welfare fund to furnish needy children with eyeglasses and other aid.

After giving a varied program that included familiar music from the works of Bach, Gould, Piere and Tchaikovsky, Garrett made those in the audience the entertainers when he led those present in some community singing.

As the words were flashed on the screen, Garrett accompanied the singing on the organ. A few novelty numbers were included, much to the enjoyment of those present.

In closing, Garrett dedicated "Dear Hearts and Gentle People" to the audience. When the applause at the end of the program refused to subside, he obliged with a couple of request encores, "Deep Purple" and "Blue Danube."

The organ recital was presented by the Lions this year in place of the usual minstrel held to raise funds for welfare purposes.

Sedalia Students Visit Record-Herald

Twenty members of the Sedalia High School journalism class shifted their classroom to the Record-Herald Monday for a practical session in newspaper operation.

With their instructor, F. R. Hanson of London, they toured the Record-Herald plant.

Harry Speakman, mechanical superintendent, showed them how the written word becomes the printed word by taking them through the back rooms of the newspaper building. He showed them how the Linotypes work, how pages are cast and how the press is operated.

Members of the class got an insight into the operation of the Associated Press printer, from Neil Hercules, city editor of the Record-Herald. He told them how news is gathered from all over the world and transmitted by wire into the Record-Herald newsroom.

Class members who made the tour included the following: Nancy Shumate, editor of the Sedalia High School newspaper; Anna Lou Radabaugh, assistant editor of the school newspaper; Barbara Johnston, Carole Smith, Elden Leeth, Eva Mae Crace, Alice Jean Seaburn, Sarah Reed, Fred Ramey, Robert Bogenife, Fred Brill, Eugene Miller, Lowell Robinson, Norma Jean Mercer, Jessie Day, Vernamae Robinson, Ann Bogenife, Donna Knisley, Eleanor Harris and Mary Louise Whiteside.

the children who had been given emergency medical attention, of the stranded families who had been helped on their way and the homes that had been rehabilitated.

He said that restaurants and stores and physicians had made concessions in their charges that made the money go further.

Miss Pinkerton told about the work that is being done for the boys and girls in rural Fayette County. She, too, was lavish in her praise of the cooperation that has been given by merchants and physicians.

One merchant, she said, had told her "this is my family this time" when she asked him about clothing. And, she added, he never hesitated when she told him that in the family there were six children besides the mother and father.

"If the balance in our fund looks big," she said, "it is because of the discounts—always at least 10 percent—which the stores give the Salvation Army cases."

Help... Not Relief

Miss Pinkerton explained that the Salvation Army stepped in to meet the emergency situations only. "We cut through red tape... we help first and investigate later," she said.

The Salvation Army program, she made plain, does not give relief, nor does it take the place of regular county relief.

It was Miss Pinkerton who said between 350 and 400 boys and girls had been helped thus far this year.

She told the committee that more than 160 girls had been given dresses and more than 300 children had been given shoes. In many cases, she said, these children could not have gone to school without the help from the Salvation Army.

Usually, the help was of temporary nature—just to tide a family over a run of bad luck or brief period of idleness for the head of the home. Often, she said, the family was kept off of relief—and that it kept its self-respect.

"There probably is some chiseling," Miss Pinkerton said, but she added, "I am convinced there is not much."

Girls Select Dresses

The girls are brought into Washington C. H., Miss Pinkerton said, and permitted to pick out their own dresses. Usually, their selections are practical, she declared. Fifteen high school girls in the county were found who had given up going to school because they did not have dresses, Miss Pinkerton said. They were brought into the stores where they selected new dresses. They are all in school now, "and doing well," she added.

Robert Olinger of the First National Bank, the treasurer of the county unit of the Salvation Army, reported a balance of $402 in the county fund after expenses of $2,877. The year started with a balance of $577 from the previous year and $2,702 from the Community Chest.

Expenditures included $2,160 to the Salvation Army general fund which can be drawn on for work here in emergencies, $175 for Christmas toys, $76 for Christmas baskets and $444 for assistance to transients.

Anonymous Benefactor

There are two special funds for children set up with contributions from an anonymous donor. The donor's name was not once mentioned to keep faith, but every member of the committee knew the name.

Out of $11,914 at the start of the year, $5,224 already has been spent. One fund is for children in the rural areas of the county and another is for children in Washington C. H.

It is from these funds that most of the clothing and shoes is supplied.

Maj. Fahey told of the work the Salvation Army is doing throughout the district and Capt. Prescott described the service of the corps in Chillicothe.

Both paid high compliments to the Fayette County unit. Maj. Fahey said it was held up as an example of what can be done by the county service units. He said the work of the unit here had received commendation from national headquarters of the Salvation Army.

Briggs Storeroom Future Uncertain

A question mark today hangs over the room being vacated by the Briggs Furniture Store.

Neither the present tenant, Wendell Briggs, proprietor of the furniture store, nor David Craig, now an attorney in Columbus who is handling the property for Mrs. H. B. Dahl, the owner, gave any indication of what might go into the room after the furniture store is out.

Briggs said simply "we couldn't agree on terms." He added that he knew of no plan to lease the room for another store.

Craig, said in a telephone conversation from Columbus, that nothing had been decided concerning the room.

Briggs acquired a furniture store in Sabina last winter.

The Briggs store stock is now being closed out. The sale is scheduled to start Wednesday and is advertised "to continue daily until everything is sold." The advertisements say the store will be open every night during the sale.

Briggs, explaining that the room would have to be vacated within 15 days, said he regretted that it was necessary to close his store in Washington C. H. He added he had no intention of opening in another room here. "There just is not another suitable room available," he said.

Many from County At Hereford Show

More than a dozen Hereford breeders and feeders from Fayette County were in attendance at the Ohio Hereford Association sale and show, held Monday in Columbus.

It is understood that several Fayette County Herefords placed in the show competition, although the Record-Herald was unable to get a listing on the places taken by Fayette County cattle before press time. Several county Herefords were entered in the show.

Among those from the county on hand at the association activities Sunday and Monday, were the following: Baldwin Rice, Harold Mark, Roscoe Duff, Alvin Writsel, Ray Warner, Harold Zimmerman, Carl McCoy, Homer McCoy, Claude Smith, Harry McGee, O. W. (Doc) House, Charlie Shaper, Edward Glaze, Sam and Emerson Marting, Walter Sollars, William Braun and Ray Brandenburg.

It is understood that there were several other Fayette County Hereford men in attendance at the sale and show.

Old Fire Engine Is Sold for Junk

COLUMBUS, March 28—(P)—When Marion's first aerial-ladder fire truck was retired one year ago everyone thought "Old No. 1" would spend her last days in a museum or at least a fire station.

But today the 34-year-old work horse rests in a Columbus junk yard. Back in December, 1948, some 3,000 Marion residents attended a civic ceremony bidding goodbye to "Old No. 1," turned over to the Ohio State Museum as a relic.

But the museum isn't big enough to store the 50-foot long truck, said Erwin C. Zepp. He thought the city of Columbus would place it with other ancient fire equipment.

Finally it was sold for junk. The salvage value probably was about $100, said Fire Chief Owen A. Siffritt of Marion.

Trend for Men's Clothes Is Towards the Lighter Weights

Comfortable Fabrics and Color In This Year's Masculine Fashions

Mid-way through our Twentieth Century men's fashions have decided to become comfortable as well as more attractive!

The American male, usually so conservative about his clothing has finally accepted the lighter, brighter 1950 concepts of men's fashions.

Today, he can say he has made a definite stride forward from the fashions of 50 years ago when dark, somber tones and muted stripes were the preferred colors and designs. When he wore single-breasted sack coats with narrow cuffed trousers that were creased front and back. When his hair was parted in the middle and brushed back pompadour style. And when he suffered the uncomfortable dignities of the bowler hat and the celluloid collar.

The days are passed when the businessman felt, that in order to be well-groomed he had to stand for stiff collars and dark suits on 90-degree days. Even union suits, vests and heavy hats are discomfort fashions of the past.

Now the lightweight trend includes all articles of men's wear from head to foot. There are ventilated hats, rayon and cotton suitings. Open weave shoes and sandals are being worn by more and more men.

"The trend to bantam-weight fabrics," says Donald E. Ross, vice president of Wilson Brothers, "makes good sense to everyone concerned, the man who wears them and his wife who cares for them. For the new sheer, light-weights have everything, coolness, washability, color fastness and an indefinable 'fresh look' that is unbeatable."

Set Habits

The first lightweight cotton fabric was Shasta cloth, introduced in the late twenties. This cotton fabric wore well, laundered with ease, retained its looks, weighted only a few ounces and met with nationwide success.

But men's style habits are hard to change, and the average American drifted back into his hard-shell, hidebound ways all over again. Not till last year was the first big dent made in his Summer clothing tastes. Today, the trend is overwhelmingly toward the light and comfortable.

During this 1950 season most of the menswear manufacturers will feature distinctively different sheer dress shirtings. Fabrics that you'll hear a lot about come sunny skies are batiste, batiste madras, voile, skip dent, leno weave, lawn, scrim and handkerchief. These new fabrics have combined with style changes to revolutionize warm weather shirts for men.

Air Conditioned

Take, for example, the semi-sport model, which is a complete chapter of the shirt story in itself. At the off ice a man can now wear his semi-sport shirt buttoned and complete with tie. After hours he can wear the same shirt with the button open, with lightweight slacks and jacket. Wearing a semi-sport, it'll be a matter of minutes for the 1950 business man to convert to the model of a man of leisure, cool and handsomely garbed.

After dark, the liberated man of 1950 will climb into really air-conditioned pajamas. Crinkle crepes (sometimes known as seersucker); ultrasheer cloth as light as a cigarette ash, called whispersheer; a number of brand-new rayon weaves, all have been put to work in creating a variety of sleepwear that's tops in warm weather comfort. In short sleeves or long, regular length trousers or shorts, the new pajamas are cool and colorful, and right as rain to take the heat off warm weather slumber.

One of the new lighter-weight styles that promises to be a boon to the outdoor guy is the Basque fisherman's shirt woven 'out of a tissue-light cotton.

Magic Nylon

Then there's that old faithful of the bath, terry-cloth, which has been cunningly utilized for moisture-absorbing T-shirts and socks; corduroy, a truly royal sport fabric, has been made up in lightweight washable cotton that's marvelously smart as well as practical; and finally nylon, the miracle fabric, has at last been woven with pores to let it breathe as easily as any natural fiber.

The mid-century year of 1950 can indeed be chalked up as the year of the great Revolution-of-the-Male, the year he finally came out of his warm weather strait jacket.

Appropriate Necktie Helps Your Appearance

Almost any color tie is appropriate with a grey suit. Brown suits go best with ties that combine brown and grey or brown and blue, while combinations of yellow and maroon are particularly fine for any blue suit. Ties with maroon and gold tones (beige, yellow, etc.) are the philosopher's stones of neckwear, they can turn the drab of any color suit into high-fashion gold.

Convertible Wardrobes Are the Thing

The average man's apparel is fast developing a split personality—and he likes it!

Yes, a growing percentage of his wardrobe is designed to play a dual role. Dressy enough to look presentable at the office, this type of clothing is equally at home out on the golf course. Slowly, but surely, the dividing line between sports wear and business wear is fading away as the former becomes increasingly smarter and the latter becomes more comfortable.

Even neckwear manufacturers are falling in with this idea and are trying to develop a "Sportie" which can be worn for both leisure and dressy occasions.

Shirts and ties are not the only items reflecting this trend. Many a man is wearing the same tweed jacket downtown that he'll later relax in at the country club. With it he dons dual-purpose slacks of covert or flannel. As for footwear, the moccasin-type style has long been accepted for board meetings or boardwalks.

Topcoats are another illustration, with zipper lined gabardine coats widely popular for every occasion, everywhere.

Look for the vogue to develop added momentum because the long-term drift in America is towards a more informal way of life. Our natural pattern of men's wear will therefore tend to grow increasingly casual, with less emphasis on strictly business attire. Can California apparel customs be a preview of things to come in all men's clothing?

Spinach is believed to have been transplanted from Asia to North Africa by the Moors.

Feel Before Buying

For years fabrics have been judged by their feel and drape in the hand. There's no better way to get an idea of performance. So have the salesperson unroll a yard or so of fabric. As you handle it, you'll find the fabric may suggest the silhouette. Crisp organdies, taffetas, failles, ottomans fly into youthful, bouffant lines. Hard finished suitings of worsted, spun rayon or spun rayon blends themselves best to disciplined tailoring. Satins, damasks, moires, brocades, the ultimate in luxury, are so rich in themselves they need simple treatment with few seams.

Men's Clothes Are 'Relaxing'

Styles for Spring
Have 'Easy' Theme

Comfortable clothes that permit a man to "relax on all occasions" are the man's choice for Spring 1950, according to the nation's fashion experts.

Men have been demanding more casual styling and color freedom in their clothes during the last couple of years and now they're really getting a full share of both.

Yellow pants, maroon shirts and even burgundy tweed sports jackets are among the many choices offered the male when he wishes to indulge his color fancy for Spring.

The Wool Bureau reports that new fabric ideas for men's wear show a greater variety than for the past couple of seasons. New woollens and worsted fabrics favor all-over designs which contain more color and permit a wider choice of complementary accessories.

Gabardine weaves continue strong with new effects in sheens, iridescents and venetians. Sharkskins, glen plaids, windowpane and houndstooth checks are still with us but their distinct patterns have been softened to give them a new look.

Business suit patterns feature several new ideas and show a definite departure from traditional designs. Changes have been made in suit construction to give men the most possible comfort. Canvas coat fronts, shoulder padding and linings have all been reduced to a minimum in size and weight.

3-Button Jackets

Single-breasted suits seem slated for new gains in popularity. And they'll be preferred in natural shoulder styles.

In sports jackets, shetland and shetland type wool fabrics are predominant. More models are cut in the three-button style and the majority have center-rear vents. Set-in flap pockets are first choice in the East. Patch pockets lead in the Middle and West Coast areas.

Leisure-time outfits combine the ultimate in comfort and practicality in easy-fitting light-weight all wool jackets, slacks and sports shirts. Stripped down in weight to make them more comfortable than ever before, these outfits also attain a new lift in design through the use of the newer, brighter colors.

Sports shirts are expertly designed and tailored to suit the man who wants smart style as well as comfort in his sports wear. Because of the wide range of light-weight wool fabrics and color selections, plus being washable, sports shirts will have even more appeal in Spring, 1950.

Top coats are also being made up in the light weight "comfortable" fabrics and styles.

In fact, almost every item of men's wear in the Spring selection is lighter in weight than ever before. Luxurious wool fabrics seen in the plentiful coat and sportswear offerings everywhere seem almost feather-light in comparison with fabrics worn by American men in the past.

Here are a couple of handy "how to" tips for you guys who jam every hat in the store on your head and still aren't "quite sure it's the right one" even after the choice is wrapped and ready to go.

If your face isn't too round, too long, too square or too anything, you haven't any problems, Bud. Choose a hat with a 2 and five-eighths inch brim. Round faced fellows will do best with a 2 and three-quarter inch snap brim and a 5 and five-eighths inch tapered crown. If yours is the very full face, select a semi-square crown with not too much of a point and a brim that's slightly snapped in front.

For the short man-about-town, the right hat has a wide brim that hides away the height of the crown and a welt edge to give the brim a full width.

The Tyrolean Way

Tyrolean hats, once a great favorite with American men, are again heading the men's wear field as far as leisure clothes are concerned. Emphasizing an unorthodox tapered crown and sporting bands of rope, cord, felt or braid these gay, jaunty hats are dtops in any man's leisure-wear wardrobe.

Glamor Put in Room With Headboard Bed

There's true glamour, economy and space saving too, awaiting your bedroom when you furnish it with a headboard bed.

Headboard beds lend themselves nicely to seasonal variation of decor. It is a simple matter to change the atmosphere of the room by slipcovering the headboards in fresh, cool fabrics with bedspreads and draperies to match for Summer.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD."

Weight, Color and Bands New On Men's Hats for This Spring

Elegance with just the right amount of "dash" highlights the theme of men's hats for Spring 1950.

Whether it's new Spring shades, or the "weight-of-air" felt, or bright new colorful bands, you're looking for, you'll find all three features prominent in great amount this Spring, when you go to select your hat wardrobe.

Perhaps never before in the entire history of modern-day apparel, have men's hats been designed to complement so well the lady's Spring wardrobe.

However, with all this, hat manufacturers have still kept in mind the prime interest of every male, comfort. Most notably in this aspect of the new Spring headwear is the introduction of narrow silk sweatbands, replacing the leather ones.

Some manufacturers have given their hats such names as "Free Weight," "Air Weight," etc., and rightfully so, because your new headpiece, in some instances will feel as though it really is light as a cloud.

Light shades of blue, grey and brown predominate the color scene with such descriptive titles as "Totem Brown," "Lagoon," "Flaxen," "Sky Grey," "Silver Belly," and "Fawn," and even a light yellow shade called "appropriately," "Sunkist." To highlight these new shades, are bright, very wide bands. A new treatment along these lines, is a two-tone twisted band, about one and a half times as wide as your present hatband.

Another Spring innovation is the introduction of brightly colored small figure bands, in the past seen mostly on straw hats. Another, is the use of college colors as the band theme.

For spectator sports, materials with a "brushed" or "hairy" look are being widely featured in various interesting shapes along with narrow wool bands. Some have hat pins in the shape of animals' heads, in the bands, offset by bright feathers. Also, a modified Tyrolean, a big favorite among American men for sportswear, is featuring a turned-up side brim and comes in bright red, yellow or green.

Men's hats this Spring are finally catching up with the times by being colorful and fresh-looking. And with your brim snapped in a way to give you that "Cavalier look," you're bound to be the handsomest man in the 1950 Easter parade.

More than one-seventh of Utah's area, or 13,130 square miles, is said to contain workable coal deposits.

Vacation Is More Enjoyable With Electrical Appliances

Take to the woods or the shore this summer and be assured of the same comfort you have at home. A summer home with electric outlets means relax and spend your days dunking with Junior.

You know the acrobatics of the thermometer on summer nights. When the mercury plunges, each member of the family sleeps restfully in the controlled warmth of an electric blanket. Just set the bedside control a few minutes before you retire. Notice that the warmth is distributed evenly without isolated cold spots. The control automatically maintains the sleeping warmth you have selected by putting more warmth into the blanket as room temperature falls. Be certain to use luke warm water and avoid soaking.

Along a large capacity automatic toaster; it performs the services of an electric range away from home. This silent kitchen assistant roasts, bakes, pan-broils, fries and steams. Just plug in, and set the control dial at the prescribed cooking temperature. Remember, your body needs at least one hot dish each meal, even on simmering days.

Here is a way to gather the young folks in jet fast. Call, "milk shake." The new General Electric Drink Mixer whips up milk shakes and fruit drinks, and can be used for other mixing tasks.

Remember, you went away for a vacation from wearisome tasks, too. That is why you welcome a compact travel iron. Weighing only two pounds, this iron has a regulator dial. It tucks away in a neat zippered case.

Rooms Brighten With New Lamps

Beauty and Comfort
Add to The Home

A good lamp is a good investment and one of the most important accessories in any room.

The right lamps, properly placed, will add a wealth of beauty, design and color to your decorating scheme as well as performing a utilitarian function. They should also reflect your individual taste and personality.

Portable lamps will play an especially important role in the decoration and lighting of your living room. This room is the scene of varied activities in which all members of the family participate. Good lighting is essential for reading, sewing and other close work. And it is important to show off your furnishings and other accessories to their best advantage.

There should be a lamp for every upholstered piece in the room. For instance, the area around the sofa or love seat should be well lighted. This can be attractively achieved by placing lamps on end tables or on a pair of chests. If the tables are identical, it is a good idea to use lamps that are alike. Two lamps on a long table in back of the couch will provide the same effect.

You can get double value from your lamps by grouping two chairs around one occasional table topped by an outstanding lamp.

Don't ruin the results of these groupings by placing your lamps too far from the chair or sofa. On the other hand, it is just as bad to place the lamp so far forward that its light creates an uncomfortable glare.

Portable lamps are a decorating asset in the bedroom from the standpoint of both beauty and comfort. Lamps on end tables on either side of the bed will enable you to read without straining your eyes.

THIS IMPORTED linen raincoat by Lawrence of London can easily double as a Spring coat. B. G. E. buttons trim the garment.

Your placement of lamps may be wise, but if there isn't a sense of fitness between your lamps and your furnishings, it will be of no avail.

If your furnishings are large and massive, your lamps should also be on a grand scale. By the same token, the shade should be the proper size for the base of the lamp. A heavy square base demands a shade that has width, while you might be careful not to overwhelm a tall narrow base with an extremely wide shade. Be sure that your lamps are high enough to provide the best light.

If your lamps meet these three requirements, efficiency, beauty and fitness, you may be certain that they are right for the room.

Solution to Drapery Problems Sometimes Can Prove Difficult

Windows, due to the whims and fancies of architects are not always as well-placed as one could wish. All too often, two windows of dissimilar sizes will be found in the same room to the belodiment of the woman who wants to create a balanced and pleasing effect.

Beatrice Greeff Price of Greeff Fabrics, believes wonders can be done to deceive the eye by the skillful hanging of draperies.

For example, as often happens in old houses, windows are of varying widths. One might be of good proportion and others in the same room might be narrow and high. By hanging the draperies at the well-proportioned window in the sash by about 4 inches to 6 inches at each side, and by hanging the draperies at the narrow window at the edge of the sash and overlapping the wall, it is possible to have the two valences of the same width and to create the impression that the windows are mates.

A long narrow room with a single off-center window will appear to better advantage if the draperies cover all the wall space on either side and overlap the window in such a manner as to make it seem centered.

In a room where the ceiling is low, coming right down to the top of the window frame, another decorating problem is presented. Again valences come to the rescue. Introduction of a scalloped effect appears to lower the height of the windows and make them seem more pleasing. Here too, the larger part of the draperies may be hung over the wall in order to maintain a pleasant proportion and to make the windows more important than they really are.

Where a window is set in such a shallow frame that there is no room for a window shade, an effective solution can be obtained by using a pair of inside shutters, padded and covered with the same fabric which is used in other parts of the room. These can swing shut at night to provide privacy and add a distinctively decorative note when they are folded back against the wall during the day.

Ensemble Is Good For Teen-ager Now

This Spring, our Teener wants a two-piece dress. A tuck-in duo that invites change-overs for other ensembles, class with its jacket and smart as can be at informal Greek letter parties without the jacket.

What makes the jacket of your two-piece ensemble depends entirely upon your own tastes and figures needs. For, this Spring, it's a choice of everything from the briefest of boleros as a cover-up for your favorite print or solid-tone "every occasion" dress.

Yes, the minimum-size matching or contrasting jacket provides cover for a sleeveless bare-top dress so that the Spring silk and rayon prints have contrasting lightweight wool jackets lined in the same gay print as the dress beneath. A bright red faille redingote provides chic topping for a bare-sleeved crepe print. The same redingote can also serve as a handsome high fashion Spring coat over other dresses.

Rustic tweeds and pure linens are the newsy combinations used for the skirt-blouse team-ups. Many of these dress duets have blouses and skirts that button or snap together, thus providing a minimum of slide-up discomfort. And Junior budgets need not cringe at the thought of new dual-piece dresses for Spring. Not only are these outfits perfect for mix-matching but they're available in low priced yet attractive and washable spun rayons, as well.

Special Attention

To get clothes with badly soiled spots really clean, give them special attention before placing in the washer. Dip them in warm water. Scrub gently but firmly with a well-lathered brush.

EISENBERG GIVES a new twist to an ever-popular classic. Stretched inverted tucks mold the skirt into a provocative silhouette.

Checks Are Good For This Spring

Solid Shades Blend With Best Fabrics

Check and double check, and what do you find? You find checks everywhere this spring of 1950.

And with these checks, you discover colors that move in sharpness, brightness, in pastel tonality, clear and muted, that vary with the fabric.

For gay variation, Abbott Kimball's Fashion Newsletter reports the prominence of prints on white and light grounds, and newer yet, on eggshell and raffia grounds. Prints will abound with spaced patterns that create a third dimension, with patterns that are often Persian and Oriental in inspiration.

And how are these checks, colors and prints used?

Checks Abound
Your dresses are checked. Your suits are checked. Your coats are checked. Checks have tattersall effects on white grounds, as in "Tic-Tac" by Juilliard. They appear in "Checkerboard" checks, shepherd checks, small checks, large checks. Checks are bold. Checks are light. There are winduppane checks, district checks, houndstooth checks. Even fleece is checked.

So lovely and harmonious are the colors of this spring, that Juilliard has named their 1950 colors "Touchtones". In this beautifully musical group are reflections of the colors you will see and wear through spring and summer.

"Blot" Prints
Spring breaks into print with stop-the-press motifs. In silk, nylon, cotton and rayon there are bolts filled with bright ideas. Colors are pinks, yellows, blues, both strong and subtle; light ground prints, tone-on-tone prints.

Delving into archives has produced Persian-inspired "Enseena" and charming "Southern Lady" by Verney; Seventh Century Egyptian tapestry prints by Burlington Mills. More genial prints spirited from Baddad is the the sorcery of Hafner. City scene sketches and abstract "blot" prints lend a sophisticated whimsy to spring.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD"

Nylon Retains Its Popularity In Latest Fashions for Spring

This spring, the wise lass on the prowl for "something new" will find an almost magical profusion of fresh nylon weaves to choose from.

There are nylon satins designed as enchanting wedding gowns. Nylon illusion net and nylon lace that ably mimic the daintiest of imports are present as precious trim for your important gowns and lingerie. And who can resist the delicacy of a Schiffli-embroidered 15-denier nylon sheer?

Nylon Lingerie

For Easter Parading, you can choose a nylon faille suit and a nylon faille, trimmed bonnet to match. Later on, you'll want a swimsuit of nylon taffeta or velvet, as well as a tee shirt of sueded nylon jersey.

In lingerie, you can buy slips and gowns flounced with fluted nylon. The pleats are heat set so they retain their sharpness through countless launderings. "Nylasatin", a satin weave, and "Poronyl", a weave that has achieved ideal porosity, are perfection for your bras and corsets.

Nylon makes an important day-after-day appearance as a novelty-stripe for your blouses. You'll see it and wear it, too, in a linen weave as your husband's sport shirts as well as your own street dresses.

Easy to Tend

Yes, nylon assumes every look and is to be found everywhere. It's a striped, a checked, a white-on-white, an embroidered weave. It's your auto's new slipcovers, it's your lovely new nylon umbrella, your next winter's ski-wear, your children's most comfortable ensembles.

Best of all, all-nylon merely requires a "dip, dry and don" laundering routine. For washing, sudsy warm water is best. Follow this with a thorough rinsing.

Set out water for birds in clay or wooden bowls to prevent freezing—or add an old pocket mirror to reflect warming light.

CRAIG'S

Mid-Century Fashions Feminine and Favored for This Year

Chic Is Word For New Models

Styles Are Tuned To Daily Activities

Do you remember when? "Peek-a-Boo" waists were chic and just a trifle daring? Dress waists were so important? This stiff dimensions of your satins, silks and velvets were relieved by yards of laces and ribbons? Dresses had to be hooked up the back by hubby or the maid? Shoes were high-topped, buckled and buttoned, too? Hats were vast be-feathered vistas? You wore a lavalere-pendant at your throat?

Chances are you don't remember. And if you do, your memories are filled with the impractical discomforts of the apparel rather than the fashions themselves.

For this was a half-century ago. And today, in the Spring of 1950, just 50 years later, ours is a fashion-world of marvels. Designs are carefully rendered to meet with ease as well as feminine flattery, your every busy day. You wear magical fabrics that require nary a stroke of the iron to retain their lovely smooth aspects. Your choice of colors is as gay and varied as the blooms about you. And fabric texture selections vary with your very moods.

This Spring, the functionalism of fashions is more prevalent than ever. There are dresses that can be worn with or without their jackets of a slightly heavier fabric. Coats are short and to the point. They're ready to be tossed over suits for lightning-speed plane trips or worn with casual elegance over Summer gowns. Suits are slim as a reed, in many instances of a rayon fabric that can be worn with ease through every season of the year.

Slimmer, Shorter

And with our fashions, designed for quick stepping moments here, there and everywhere, comes the shorter silhouette, 14-inches

CHANDA'S FORWARD looking young Miss Napoleon bicorne sailor predicts Spring-time's new millinery fashion scene.

CAREFUL homemakers can forget about the tedious, often unsatisfactory chore of cleaning delicate lampshades now that shades of Vinylite plastic are available.

high is the popular prediction for this Spring's skirt lengths.

Over-all lines are slimmer, sleeker but femininely softened by bloused jacket backs or bodies. Dropped shoulders, easy-moving sleeves or none at all are prominent. The sleeve fashions that often stop at bracelet or just-below-the-elbow length come in designs that are opulently flounced, extravagantly cuffed or wide as a Kimono's.

Spicy accents are loaned to fashions for Spring '50 by buttons in all shapes, sizes and fabrics. There are also profusions of pockets, placed high and low, front and back, and shaped to add pleasant contrast to the lines of your apparel. Crisp touches of ice white linen or pique and sleek streaks of patent leather also add to the over-all look of 1950 modernity.

Clear Colors

Nylon, the magic fabric of the Century, captures fashion completely this momentous mid-century Spring. Easy to find and lovely to wear is nylon as nylon, nylon as rustling taffeta, soft crepe, worsted and many of your other favorite fabrics. Nylon too, will appear in opaque as well as translucent interpretations, in solids and gay prints. Blouses, dresses, even wedding gowns will be created of this wonder fabric.

And because this is an exciting year and an exciting season, colors follow suit. They're clear, true, honest as the season, abundant with checks of all sizes and small prints many of which are reminiscent of the Orient. Although Navy Blue is still the Number One color for Spring, the entire range of golden, sun-kissed colors from demure apricot to gentle tan also holds fashion attention. Cherry Red comes in for a mid-century how as do the blues of all hues, Royal Blue in particular.

Yes, fashions of Spring 1950 are not just an overpowering potpourri of available fabrics, Spring '50 fashions are a vital ever-changing part of our atom-paced, ever-changing world.

Plastic Poncho

A new tuckaway poncho is now available for the hunter or fisherman who wants to be ready for a sudden shower. Made of Vinylite plastic film, this poncho is light in weight, comfortable to wear, and so small it can be tucked away in a pocket, ready for instant use.

Square Dance Fad Leads to New Fashions

BY DOROTHY ROE

Now that the square dance has become America's national pastime, second only to baseball in the hearts of the people, a whole new category of fashions has been born.

You can't go to a square dance, you know, all dressed up in elaborate silks and satins. And you can't do the proper whirling and promenades if you're dressed in the usual slim-skirted day-time styles of the season. For proper enjoyment of a square dance, you must have gay, full-skirted cottons—skirts designed for twirling, blouses that allow free action. And after a strenuous evening of dancing to the strains of "Turkey in the Straw," you'll want to toss everything into the family wash-machine, to have it fresh and crisp for next Saturday night.

Favorites with square dance fans about the country are full cotton skirts and separate blouses, often matching their partners' shirts. Some bright girls make their own outfits, and also stitch up a shirt of matching fabric for the boy friend, so that the couple makes a colorful and easily identifiable team on the floor, when the prizes are being passed out.

Others buy the gay and inexpensive cotton separates that are available in stores throughout the country, deftly designed and always in vivid colors.

It's fun to wear ruffled cotton petticoats beneath the full skirts so that a ruffle of crisp white eyeliner or lace shows when you whirl. Blouses sometimes match, sometimes contrast with the skirts. They may be either the big-sleeved peasant type or more tailored shirt styles, but always in washable cottons.

For less than a ten-dollar bill you may buy the newest and gayest square-dance outfits, and be all set to be the belle of the barn dance.

Women Shopping For Men's Clothes

Flaming red, Kelly green, rust, helio, pearl grey and winter navy are the six top colors on the fashion parade right now-for men!

This startling news comes as the result of a recent survey conducted by Wilson Brothers, manufacturers of men's furnishings. It was based on actual sales of sportswear, under-clothes, socks, pajamas, shirts, ties and the like.

The survey further revealed some of the things a woman looks for when she shops for her man:

1. A good brand name that indicates quality merchandise.
2. Labels that identify fabrics and their contents.
3. Washing instructions that must be followed.
4. Tags that tell fading and shrinking percentages.

Generous seams.

Nursery Invaded By Plastics Now

In the department of "why-didn't - someone - think - of - that - before", comes news of a welcome invasion of the nursery by plastic articles.

Fabrics of plastic are a natural for the nursery. They are soft, pliant, nonirritating, tasteless and odorless. Then, too, they resist scuffing, teething and the other minor abuses of the nursery set. But most important to the mother, these fabrics are moisture proof, flame-resistant and can be cleaned with the whisk of a sudsy cloth. Here are some of the many aids that are being added to counters daily.

The cautious, yet decorator-conscious mother will welcome a pretty crib of quilted plastic. The same cushiony fabric lines baby's carry basket.

While baby takes his nap, mother can snip and stitch handsome plastic fabric curtains of Comark's good looking Stewart plaid. This, like other plastics, can be bought by the yard. Young Year chooses it for a high chair pad and matching play pen pad.

to the lady who thinks it doesn't matter if she wears an old slip held up by a safety pin.

Petticoats, slips, camisoles and bras are planned to the specifications of the new silhouette--and this spring they come in light-hearted colors and unexpected fabrics such as, for instance, checked gingham.

At the recent spring show of the Negligee and Lingerie Manufacturers' Association, the fact was stressed that to be in step with the times you should have navy undergarments to wear with your new navy suit, black to wear with black, ruffy petticoats to wear with dresses that need a crisp, full skirt line and slit slips or petticoats with slim, slit skirts.

The manufacturers also point out that the favorite garment of most American women is the house coat or negligee, which is decorative enough to wear for dinners at home, comfortable enough to induce relaxation at the end of a busy day.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines has developed a method of detecting quartz grains in rock particles.

Relax for Beauty

A few pennies a night is all the best mattress and bedspring obtainable cost, and yet many women, and men, too, deny themselves its comforts and benefits. While the initial investment many scorn, ultimately it will total far less than the half dollars, dollars and more spent trying to buy that which is not for sale, the natural beauty which comes from being rested and in good health.

Teen-age Girls Will Wear 'Big Sister' Styles To Be Smart

Suits, Dresses In Many Colors

Season's Fabrics Young in Heart

Spring is a light-hearted season. And the smart young miss who's choosing her Spring suits and dresses naturally picks them in fabrics to match her mood, young, light-hearted and gay!

This Spring she'll have a wonderful selection at her command, in printed crepes, in smooth rayon suitings, in crisp, light-weight taffetas and failles, and in rayon blended fabrics that are as fresh and new as the season itself.

Springtime is print-time, by tradition and by popular choice. And this year brings an endless parade of bright young rayon prints, gay and colorful against a traditional navy ground, or against the muted greys, beiges and browns that are fashion favorites for Spring 1950.

You'll find these prints on a wide assortment of rayon fabrics from smooth crepes to crisp taffetas to the sheerest of sheers, for rayon takes unusually good color with clear, well defined tones.

Checks Everywhere

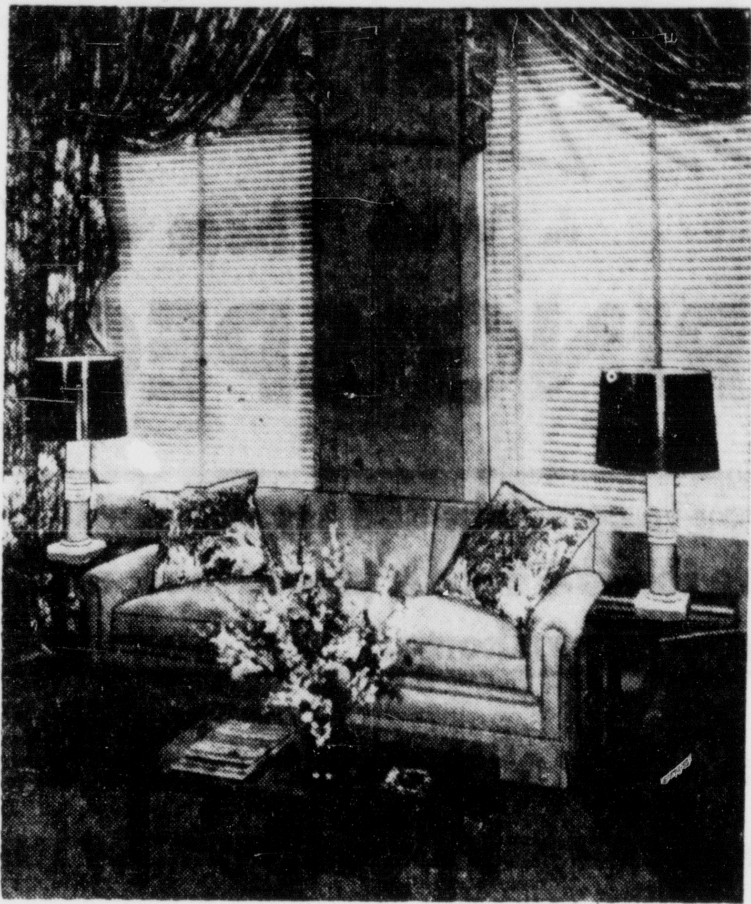

Suiting fabrics are interesting this Spring, too, especially the all-rayon, worsted-type fabrics that are being used in well-made, fully-lined, yet budget-priced suits. The handsome fabric in these suits is made for long wear and comfort, as well as good styling.

And on the subject of styling, just one look at rayon suits will convince you that this is a big year for checks, from tiny flecked effects to big, bold, semi-plaids. Hound's - tooth checks, shepherd checks, clan checks, all the looking new and smart in Springtime shades of blue, rose, lavender and green. Stripes, plaids and solids are also popular, but the really "big" fashion in suitings this Spring is checks!

Blends Popular
Another group of exciting

A HIGH fashion collar plus big pockets adds the important advance fashion highlights to this easy-to-get-into swirl dress.

OCCASIONAL CHAIRS have been placed near end tables so that one pair of lamps provides ample light for this conversational grouping. Deep green lamp shades are in sharp contrast to the light bases.

Spring fabrics are the blends, made from a combination of the different fibers, to give the finished fabric the best qualities of both.

Rayon-and-wool is used for many Spring suits and casual dresses, as rayon helps to make a long-wearing fabric that is a comfortable weight. Rayon-and-silk is another combination that's meeting fashion favor this Spring. You'll see this blend in suits and smart casual dresses. One especially handsome fabric has the sophisticated look (but not the price) of rough-woven raw silk. It's made with tiny raised strands of bright color against an oyster white background.

In another Springtime blend, rayon combines with nylon to form a fabric that's noted for excellent draping qualities, clear color tones, and soft, firm body. You'll see rayon-and-nylon blends in all sorts of pretty afternoon and party dresses, both prints and solids, in styles that are ideal for a young-hearted wardrobe.

All in all, the Spring fabric picture for a fashion-wise miss is really exciting this year. Whether she sews her own or buys ready-made, whether her taste runs to the dressy or the tailored, she'll be able to choose styles in a wonderful assortment of gay and good looking fabrics.

Budget Furniture Are Household Must

Today, on a modest budget, any woman can give her imagination free rein. She can furnish her entire home with beautiful, well constructed furniture, then paint it to meet her personal decorating tastes.

There are chests, storage units, credenzas, chifferobes, bookcases, beds, tables, chairs, mirrors as well as other important pieces available. One manufacturer, Aristo-Bilt, offers 37 varied items. With so many pieces to choose from, it's easy and fun to give each room its own personality.

Contrary to popular belief, unfurnished coffee grounds are not a fertilizer.

Push Walls Around With Wall Paper

How many times have you wished that your living room was two feet wider, your hallway just a little larger and if only the wall space in the bedroom was not so broken up?

Unfortunately, average Mrs. Mommaker cannot change substantially the architecture of her apartment or home. But she can resort to decorating tips to minimize her problems.

The use of wall paper is one of the easiest, most attractive and least expensive ways to alter your home. The proper wall paper can turn these defects in even the most difficult room into decorating assets.

Most everyone has a hallway, but not all of us lucky enough to have one large enough to accommodate furniture. That's no reason to fret. A scenic wall paper here will give dignity and poise to this small area as well as creating the illusion of added space. Smart striped papers in muted colors will also achieve the same effect.

Living Rooms

Because the rooms are small lighter tones and small patterns are best; they give a feeling of spaciousness and expanse. For an unusual effect, wall paper the hall area and three living room walls with a small geometric design, and on one of the end walls hang a colorful splashy floral.

Strangely enough, a room that is too big can present a decorating headache too. Wall papers in deep, warm colors with bold designs done on a grand scale, will inject a feeling of warmth and coziness to the largest room. The darker hues and heavier patterns have a tendency to bring the walls together.

Wall paper plays a very important role in the decoration of your dining room, no matter what the size. Since the main pieces of furniture in the room are wood, it may very easily be cold and uninviting. Often the chairs provide the only source of color.

Therefore, timidity has no place in influencing the choice of wall coverings for this room. Even though the area may be small, the wall paper should be dramatic and eye-catching.

Some Hints Given To Help Shirt Fit

Few things can be more annoying than a too-tight shirt collar. Perfect collar fit is also necessary if the shirt is to look its best. So, the next time you shop for shirts, watch out for that collar! And be sure, too, that the points lie flat and are equal in length.

Don't forget, either, that the comfortable fit of a shirt is a prime requisite for happy wearing. To achieve absolutely proper fit, the yoke seams across the back should curve slightly downward. This takes up the stretch from your shoulder muscles. The pleats or gathers that are used to provide back fullness should be distributed evenly across the yoke seam or on both sides of your shoulder blades.

When the ground is snow-covered, mix sand with bird seed for birds need to eat gravel.

Modern Women Not So Rugged As Grandma, but Glamorous

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
We are not the girls our grandmothers were. We are lazy, we are soft and we have a lot of valuable time to waste. We have too much leisure which we don't put to good use.

At least that's the indictment. Maybe it's the fault of the modern woman, but I prefer to think it's the fault of smart people who invent wonderful work-saving devices and of kindly husbands who pay out good money to buy them.

My grandmother, according to legend, arose with the sun, performed certain chores and then produced a breakfast for her band, children and hired man which would send modern men, women and children back under their electric blankets with a container of bicarb of soda. I would be a suspected mental case if I arose at 4:30 A. M. to make breakfast preparations which primarily involve flipping the furnace thermostat and turning on the electricity under the percolator.

The nostalgia gathers and harkens-back-to-the-past are forever extolling grandmother as a woman possessing all virtues, and virtues which have disappeared. The fact that grandmother frequently disappeared from this mortal sphere, completely worn out by her ceaseless drudgery, doesn't seem to occur to them, except that her early demise makes her more of a heroine. Modern women are actually even being reproached mildly because the actuarial figures give them longer lives.

There are a few things in grandmother's favor. For instance, she was rarely concerned with calory-counting. Certainly she never took time out for the rather sterile chore of setting up exercises.

Grandmother absorbed her exercises scrubbing floors, bending over a hot stove and flailing around the house with a broom, to mention but a few of her activities. It's a silly girl who today elects a crick in the back by washing dishes when she can toss them into a porcelain and chrome gadget designed especially to do the work. It would be bad judgement to pound the lord and master's shirts on a washboard when there's a wonderful piece of the equipment in the cellar which can do it better, whiter and without effort other than turning a switch and dumping in a little soap.

This is merely a defense of modern life. The problem confronting women is what to do with themselves in all the time these marvels of science have given them. It might be a good idea if the manufacturers of the time-and-back-savers undertook to give the girls some pointers. Or at least help women explain to their husbands that all day-time hours are not spent listening to soap operas, nibbling chocolates, playing bridge and gossiping.

Yes, there are good works to be done. Unfortunately, not every woman enjoys organizations. Many women dislike collecting funds in charity drives. There are hobbies, but you can't spend day after day refinishing furniture or even making slipcovers and new drapes. There comes a time when there are no more needed. That's true of Argyle socks, table runners with matching napkins and books on child psychology.

Some women would like to use their free time going to work, the reward being a pay check at stated intervals. Many husbands object to this, the same husbands who bought the washing machines. How about politics? Dangerous, for that field-and a number of others-are pretty carefully staked out as male claims.

It's a difficult situation. Maybe it would be better arbitrarily to abolish all these wonderful things.

I think we ought to consult with grandmother about any changes. I'll bet my last bottle of self-polishing floor wax she'd change places with me any day-including diet, radio and washing machine. Heroines, like invention, are mothered by necessity.

Trend in Needlework

Today, the trend in needlework is toward personalized possessions for both the home and wardrobe, judging from the many new easy-to-make needlecraft designs available in the stores.

There are guest and fingertip towels hemstitched pillow cases and white organdy aprons. Many new patterns in make-it-yourself hooked rugs are also available. These are stamped on a convenient standing frame.

For the small fry, Paragon Needlecraft has introduced a make-it-yourself Nursery Ensemble. This includes an applique quilt in crib or junior size, with stuffed toys and bibs to match the animals and figures on the quilt.

NEW FOR Spring, the sleeveless button-front tuck blouse of woven multistripe cotton by Texton. In a variety of colors.

Tips Offered Wallet-wise Shoppers Now

That wallet or billfold of yours comes in for a lot of wear and fond affection but little or no special attention.

To help you make the wisest selection for gift-giving or for yourself and to help lengthen the life of your backpocket favorite, here are several choice and care tips provided by Buxton, makers of billfolds and Key-Tainers themselves.

Because leather is actually the skin of an animal, no two pieces are ever exactly alike, as are manufactured textiles for example.

The finest of all leathers is alligator, which, for the manufacturer of billfolds is cut from the belly of the animals. Costly and extremely durable, its popularity is on the increase.

Good pigskin, particularly apropos for college and sportswear, is not as plentiful as other leathers. Only a small percentage of the pigs slaughtered for meat are ever skinned. Pigskin is rich in natural oil which comes to the surface under hand tooling. A highly serviceable leather, it mellows in color with use.

Sealskin, a dressy type of leather, is practical and long-wearing. Thin, soft and pliable, it is available in different grains. Bright Pin-Seal is the fine natural grain obtained by careful finishing.

Goatskin is a sturdy, durable leather in the medium-priced field. The finest of all goatskin is Moroccan. Next in quality is India Goat, a popular billfold leather, and a favorite for conservative tastes.

Some Pointers

Ostrich, a luxury leather, is supplied by the only bird whose skin is tanned for commercial use. No two skins are alike in marking, and often only one billfold can be made from an Ostrich skin. Durable and handsome, it is a leather aristocrat.

Some practical pointers on the care of that billfold from the experts:

To remove the soil on pigskin, use an ordinary art gum eraser. For stubborn stains, dampen a soft cloth with a 10% solution of Oxalic Acid (available in drug stores), and wipe lightly, never warn the experts, scrub or use cleaning fluids. And do remember that the natural oil in pigskin will cause the billfold to darken, and is not a stain.

Ostrich, too, naturally darkens in use. For ostrich, and light leathers which may require occasional cleaning, a good neutral cream is recommended. It is well to remember that creams not only clean, but polish as well, and should not be used on dull-finish leather, unless a polish is desired. Alligator usually responds to ordinary rubbing, but a good neutral cream is beneficial as well.

Television Adds New Dimensions For Activities and Decorating

Television has entered your living room!

And in the typically rapid-changing pace of our Twentieth Century, this new magical medium of home entertainment has not only added an entirely new slant to your choice of amusements but it has also managed to make a lighting-fast change-over of the personality of your living room as well as adding an entirely new dimension to home decorating as a whole.

Indeed, television has provided decorators and designers with a challenging new theme for adapting the home to its needs. Even architecture has been affected by this new medium.

Furniture arrangements are now made to center around the television set instead of the traditional fireplace. There is a trend away from heavy pieces of furniture such as the overstuffed couch and breakfast, and toward light, mobile chairs and settees.

The hard-to-move armchair that is Dad's favorite has been given rollers or made to swivel so that he can face the television screen. Entirely new pieces, such as television chairs that stack for storage and television tables with revolving tops, have made their appearance.

Manufacturers of television sets have not been caught unawares by this trend. Many cover the traditional, in receivers of many sizes and shapes, to make sure of fitting into any household. Cabinets are available in standard dark mahogany or in such exotic new woods as blond African avodire.

Two TV Sets

Every room in the house is being shuffled, refurnished, re-decorated to make way for the television set. The living room, the dining room, enclosed sun porches, even large back walls are being utilized. In many homes special "television rooms" have been created especially for this new home center of amusement.

The entry of a second television set is already becoming not too uncommon an occurrence. Newer, smaller receivers are continually entering the market and they are being used to answer small space as well as other problems. The bedridden older person or a sick child is easily entertained by a bedroom television set. One 8½ inch model now available weighs very little but offers a good-sized picture screen. A portable receiver, which has its own folding antenna, is also useful.

Another novelty is the Motorola kitchen television set. This all-white model has a washable bakelite cabinet that can be wiped clean with a damp cloth, and it will put recipes and household hints at Ma'am Homemaker's fingertips.

If you decide to do a room over for television, here are some hints that will prove helpful.

A Light Color

First make a sketch of the area as it will look after you have rearranged it to center on your television set. TV tends to stop traffic, so try to plan so that chairs will have to be moved as little as possible, both to see the screen and for easy circulation in the room.

Place your receiver against an uncluttered wall, without any distractions such as bric-a-brac or fancy wallpaper. If you're going to repaint the room, choose a light color that will provide the least contrast with the bright screen. Have lights that give soft general illumination and that will not shine into the eyes. Make sure you have adequate ventilation when guests gather. Chairs should be kept at least 6 feet from the screen, for the sake of your eyesight. For a large screen, which should be placed only in a good sized room, the distance will be greater than for a small one. Comfortable chairs and not stools are recommended since sitting several hours at a stretch can be pretty tiring otherwise.

For a really complete home entertainment center, you should consider a special wall unit that will provide space for your television set, phonograph, records, party necessities and other odds and ends.

Home Sewing Fashion News

Spring's woollens and worsteds in your favorite fabrics department are as varied and interesting in color as they are intriguing in pattern and texture.

For sports and casual wear, the dress weight tweeds will be extensively shown in check design. These fabrics are distinctly soft to the hand, with interesting texture treatments. Striped fabrics are to be found also, though the check patterns hold leadership. Whether you choose check or stripe, however, there are the companion plain fabrics or complementary weaves to be used together in the costume.

Among coatings and suitings, the importance of checks also prevails. There are named, authentic "district" checks; large and very large checks on white or muted grounds; large pattern plaids, all with companion plaids.

For the more sporting of coats, plain weave fleeces are important, particularly for short coats. Coats of the more formal type employ the dressier broadcloths and Venetian coverts.

In general, the lighter tones prevail. Soft blues and pinks, golden yellows and aquas. Copper tones and pastels such as icy green, geranium, wood violet, describe important color values. White is, as usual, favored for coats. Navy, that perennial favorite, continues to hold its favored place. Reds and greens in many interpretations carry over from the fall. In the broadcloths and coverts, navy and cocoa browns are in evidence, though reds and greens and shades of gold permit a wider choice as to color.

Did You Know

A new pattern, made of Bakelite polyethylene plastic, comes from the envelope sewn together to form a completed half-dress ready to be tried on for size and becomingness. The pattern is sewn together with a simple chain thread is pulled, leaving perforations along all seams and darts.

Green News

The "Wearing Of The Green" is now more than a marching song for St. Patrick's Day, as far as the fashionable male is concerned. This year, after a long period of steady climbing green has secured for itself a firm place in the male wardrobe. Look for it to sprout up at the first sign of Spring.

Spring Clothes Have Shorter Lines with Slimming Tendency

Boxy Jackets Are Good too

Special Emphasis On Pocket Detail

Greetings to the suit of spring 1950 strong point and talking point of your wardrobe for any occasion and every occasion.

Shorter skirts and shorter jackets with special emphasis on pocket detailing and sloping shoulderlines combine to make suit news this spring of the mid-century starter year.

If you wear, as well as follow, the latest trends, there's truly dramatic styling for your suit this spring season. The jacket (25 or 26-inches in length) is belted at the waist, elegantly bloused in back, sometimes with black pleats that extend into the sleeves to give the important sloped shoulder effect. The collar plunges low in front and rises high in back to serve as a perfect frame for your new shorter hair-do. The sleeves are fairly full, often tightly nipped at the waist, in order to provide the new shirtwaist sleeve feeling. And in striking contrast, the skirt is slim, slim, slim, relieved in severity by possible kick-pleats, stitching or side rows of buttons. The skirt is also about 1-inch shorter than your last year's skirt or 14-inches from the ground.

If you like your suits to have a svelte, slim appeal, you can choose them that way. The hips may be padded, the waist will very likely be nipped. And the straight sleeves will in all probability have trim turn-back cuffs. You'll select that reed-slim suit with a striking a symmetrical jacket closing, wonderfully combined with a side-swept skirt.

Diagonal closings or not, there are always pockets galore. They'll be placed nearer the waistline than on your fall suit, and will possibly be located on the back of your jacket or at the hipline of your skirt. Slide-in, button-down, curved, contrasting, hidden, with flaps, these are only some of the pocket-types so abundant this spring.

Or choose a boxy jacket suit, saucy as a little boy. Pleated skirts are the feature this season topped with box jackets that follow through on the trend to the shorter in length. They hang to the waist or hip bone rather than waist-length as they did last season. Many have demure little rounded collars to help complete the little boy manner. Also newsworthy, as well as appealing, in this year's crop of boxies are the many bright contrast linings to be seen.

Suits have that sleek look and feel about them this spring, thanks to the slickly treated fabrics of which they've been styled.

New lightweight worsteds, sometimes sheer, but always durable, are highlighted in your suit selections. Also prominent are tissue weight tweeds, skillfully manipulated like silk. The perennial, makes a favorable entry into the spring '50 suit line-up.

And predicted to be prized year-round values are the rayon suits, modestly priced and more smartly styled than ever before to be amazingly similar in appearance of fine worsteds.

Incidentally, you can stop worrying about wearing out that favorite suit too quickly. Just select a suit with two skirts.

Proper Care For Woolens

You can add seasons of smart extra wear to your precious woolens simply by giving careful attention to home pressing between trips to the cleaner, and offering them wary storage during the warm-weather months.

Here are the do's and don'ts for home pressing.

Always use a pressing cloth. Never apply the iron directly to the wool. Always use a smooth, well-padded ironing board. And follow these steps: first place the dry press cloth on the wool. Next, dampen the press cloth with a sponge dipped in warm water.

Use a light touch. Stop pressing before the material is quite dry. Place the garment on a well-shaped hanger and let it dry in its own natural lines.

Press hems, collars, lapels and other heavy parts first, starting on the wrong side. To avoid leaving marks on the right side, slip paper under the seam edges when pressing.

Take these precautions with your wool garments for safety-storage.

Be sure your woolen garments are spotlessly clean before you store them. Hang them in the sun and brush every crevice thoroughly.

For perfect safety, wash or dry clean your woolens before storing

Ease Featured In Men's Shoes

Men's Footwear Is Lighter Weight

Men, take a tip from the ladies this year and be as comfortable when the mercury climbs as you are when it is an even 70 degrees.

Instead of settling for a year-round wardrobe, women dress for each season. They find that by rotating their wardrobes and accessories they look smarter, feel more comfortable and are more at ease than when they wear their mink coats in July.

Wrong Shoes

Sounds silly when put that way, but actually men couldn't be much warmer in a heavy overcoat during the summer heat than they are when they wear heavy winter suits and shoes in hot weather.

So men, the National Shoe Institute suggests, "take that overcoat off your feet." When you hang your winter flannels in storage this summer and take out your cool suits put good firm shoe trees in your winter-weight unventilated shoes and step out in some of the new lighter-weight, comfortable summer shoes.

These shoes are especially slated to accompany cool suits and gabardines, light worsteds, as well as the tropical Palm Beach cloth, corded rayons and rayon mixtures. These tropical shoes are ventilated, mesh and woven shoes in attractive patterns.

Slip-Ons

Tropical slip-ons are perfect for warm weather dressing when it seems too hot to even secure a shoe lace. These slip-ons have a new side elasticized gore, easy-on, easy-off. Tropical shoes in soft, muted color effects, one or two-tone patterns for summer town suits or country wear with lightweight slacks.

Thinner soles, lighter treatments, easy-on construction, and softer colors are some of the attractive features that highlight these shoes which will be air-cooled, air conditioned and good looking accessories for the men in 1950.

quantities of moth crystals between the layers as well as in the pockets.

Short Toppers Favored with Slimmer Lines

Shortie coats—from finger-tip to waist-length—are fashion-preferred for morning, noon and night this spring of 1950. And the shorter they are, the newer and more exciting.

This season, toppers are worn loose or belted, rather than flared. Newest of the silhouettes is the butterfly wing capelet. This is a dramatic combination of the short, short coat, the 1950-revived cape and exaggerated dolman sleeves.

Prominent in the spring topper group are unmounted, sloped shoulder-lines that pair with high-rising, but small collars to produce a "back to the 20's in 1950" effect. Many of these toppers bear a strong resemblance to the artist's smock with fullness concentrated below a shoulder yoke.

Pockets and Buttons

Topper sleeves are fuller than they've been for several seasons. Many are three-quarter, accented with deep, turn-back cuffs. Some are nipped below the elbow. While others fall bracelet-low and can be casually pushed-up to the length desired.

Pockets again make fashion news. On shortie coats, they're large and numerous, and make for eye-catching details when they're cuffed, slide-in, patch, double and set side by side at the hem, or are left to stand alone as deep pouches.

Buttons too, come in for their share of attention. They run in double rows from shoulder line to hem. They serve as double closings near the neck. But although there is a great prevalence of buttons, they're purely decorative. Toppers, for the most part this spring, are meant to be worn casually open.

Many old favorites among the fabrics will be seen again this spring, but most of them have been treated to refreshing, eye-appealing change-overs.

Checks in Color

Gabardine will appear in a new guise. Expect to see and wear it striped, checked or with shadow dots. Sharkskin has a new face. Dotted weaves and pastel shades add fresh appeal to this favored fabric. Tweeds, continue on from the season just past, soft and light as ever, in many weaves and ready to feel at home in town or country. Fleece toppers promise to be more popular than ever.

Checks, one of the fashion's biggest, brightest features for spring, will also make stand outs of your toppers. Most exciting of the checked shorties are those involving such shades as gold, blue, green and violet.

A company dish de luxe is made of chicken breasts, lightly sauteed in butter, then covered with a cream sauce embellished with oysters. Asparagus vinaigrette make a fine accompaniment for this dish.

Accent on Buttons In New Fashions

This year, buttons dominate the fashion scene.

Buttons are everywhere! Accenting scissor panels, sweeping up daring back slits of skirts, dramatizing new nubby woollens of coats and jackets, glittering on the narrow straps of chemise dresses. Buttons are an integral part of every chic costume.

The woman who makes her own clothes will capture the feeling of a small child let loose in a candy store when she visits a button department. Variety, glamour and abundance mark the button collections.

There are burnished straw buttons from the Caribbean and Orient designed to match the straw bags which will be prevalent this spring and summer. Tanned leathers from the plains of Argentina and Texas to place on wool knits and rough tweeds and to add a touch of originality to simple leather gloves.

Polished woods from the Northwest forests add an expensive custom-made note to gabardines, jerseys and wools. Sparkling jewels from Europe and Africa give stunning accent to chiffons, crepes wools.

Throughout the Bailey, Green and Elger button collection, colors have been dyed and matched to the Forstmann County Fair colors.

Middle Road Taken By New Men's Ties

With Summer and Spring suits lighter in color than ever before, the new middle-shade ties are designed as a two-way threat, to set the suits off to their greatest advantage and yet enable the neck-piece to lead a life of its own.

Big, brash bold patterns have lost none of their fashion sting, says the Men's Tie Foundation.
